

KIDNAP PROBE TURNS TOWARD FLORIDA TODAY

Man Said to be Friend of Lindbergh Servant Questioned; Spitaler and Bitz on Trial for Liquor Violation in New York to Leave for Detroit as Soon as Trial Ends; Press Conference Halted

NEW YORK, March 11.—The farflung investigation into the vanishing of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby today swung temporarily into Florida.

On the report that John Norman Brett was a friend of the servant of the Lindbergh household at Hopewell, N. J., police at Miami were asked to take him into custody for questioning.

Brett emphatically denied that he was acquainted with anybody in the Lindbergh home and claimed that he was in Miami since January.

TO CHECK STORY

He will be released if his story is found to be correct, Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf of the New Jersey state police announced.

There was little else that the Colonel had to say about the progress of the 10-day old kidnaping mystery.

MRS. WALTERS TAKEN FRIDAY

Mother of Former County Official Victim of Cerebral Hemorrhages

Mrs. Mary Jane Walters, aged 85, mother of John E. Walters, former county commissioner, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Maggie D. Valentine of the Ringgold-pk Friday at 10:30 a. m. Cerebral hemorrhages caused death.

Mrs. Walters was a native of Scotland, having been born Jan. 4, 1847, the daughter of Emanuel and Mary Rice Dresbach. She was the widow of John J. Walters.

Surviving are the daughter at whose home she died, another daughter, Mrs. Mabel L. Valentine, and a son, John E. Walters. Four grandchildren also survive.

She was a member of Trinity Lutheran church.

Funeral arrangements, in charge of Mader & Ebert, have not been completed.

HURRY HELP TO LAKE ERIE BOATS

SANDUSKY, O., March 11.—Rescue boats from several Lake Erie ports set out today in an attempt to reach the United States dredge Taylor, which has been held fast in the ice near here since late Wednesday with a crew of 40 aboard.

U. S. Coastguard boats which late yesterday aided in freeing the fishing tug New York which had been wedged in the ice at the mouth of Cuyahoga river, were called to aid the Taylor craft.

One other boat was feared in distress on the lake as a result of the ice floes. The tugmaster Pelletier, last night was reported to have been drifting helplessly toward Pelee Island.

MOTHER FINDS SON MISSING 19 YEARS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—Ending a search of 19 years, a San Francisco mother, Mrs. Rafaelita Quesada Shroyer, today had found her lost son, Lloyd Shroyer now a man of 22 residing in Johnson City, Tenn.

Mrs. Shroyer was overwhelmed with joy when a Red Cross worker advised that her son was alive. Later Lloyd telegraphed her.

Shroyer said her husband, C. R. Shroyer, went to his home in Indiana 19 years ago to visit his parents.

"I let him take Lloyd, my baby, just 2-1/2 years old for I wanted his grandparents to see him," Mrs. Shroyer explained. "I got a letter or two and then silence. For years I tried to trace them, but without success until today."

Three-Fourths Of Votes Ask Amendment Repeal

NEW YORK, March 11.—Three-fourths of the 2,063,111 ballots received so far in the nationwide poll on prohibition conducted by the Literary Digest favored repeal of the 18th amendment, tabulations given out today by the publication showed.

Votes from 38 states and the District of Columbia were included in the summary. The poll's goal is the recording of 20,000,000 votes on the question whether retention or repeal of the amendment is favored by the voter.

DRYS SHOW GAIN
The drys, however, recorded a third consecutive gain over the wet vote this week, increasing from 22.61 percent to 23.96 per cent of the total.

Their first returns in the "straw" referendum gave the drys 15.85 percent.

Kansas was the only state in the current report showing a majority of 52.58 percent for the present prohibition laws.

Every southern state participating in the vote until now favored repeal.

Of the total votes received, 1,574,776 or 76.34 percent were for repeal, and 488,335 or 23.66 percent for continuance of the 18th amendment.

STATES RECORDED
The fourteen states from which returns were received this week for the first time were:

Alabama, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oregon, Texas, Washington and Wisconsin, and the District of Columbia.

Oklahoma showed the highest percentage of the group for maintenance of prohibition, with 45.40.

Wisconsin led in expressing wet sentiment, with a percentage of 82.94.

Arkansas rose to second place in the dry column with a percentage of 48.67, displacing Tennessee into third place with a dry vote of 47.31 per cent.

New York and New Jersey were first and second respectively in the wet column, but the drys made slight gains in each over previous weeks.

Of the Pacific Coast states, California registered the largest wet vote, turning in 77.52 percent of the ballots for repeal. Oregon, which 71.25 percent against prohibition, while Washington's wet percentage was 65.95.

TEN UNHEARD FROM
Ten states have not yet been heard from in the poll.

The current report covered the fourth week of the poll. In last year's balloting for the congressional period, the results from 41 states were for enforcement, 553,337; for modification, 598,252; for repeal, 848,751.

This year the query about modification was dropped in the poll.

RESCUE 400
STRANDED MEN

HELINGSFORS, Finland, March 11.—Rescue of approximately 400 fishermen stranded on ice floes in the eastern part of the Gulf of Finland was regarded as virtually certain today as icebreakers continued to break the ice and prevent its drifting far out to sea.

Nearly half of the 700 originally cut off from land in extremely harsh weather had reached safety today. Many others were believed safe on several of a number of islands dotting that part of the gulf.

The only fears expressed here were that some of the fishermen may be harmed from exposure since they went adrift with few provisions and in clothes too light for the severe weather they encountered.

Emily Bennett Heffner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heffner, is confined to his home on E. Union-st. with the chicken pox.

INMATE OF CO. JAIL INJURES PROPERTY

Arthur Tootle, 29, of Perry-tp., was adjudged insane Friday on the testimony of Drs. J. B. May and Howard Jones. He was to be taken to Athens state hospital.

Tootle, who has been living in Akron, was taken into custody for examination at the home of his father near New Holland.

He was placed in the county jail Thursday and after being confined there broke a window glass, tore loose gas pipes and broke an electric conduit.

Other prisoners in the jail were frightened by his actions and it was necessary to place the man in a cell.

ALFALFA BILL PUTS NAME IN OHIO PRIMARY

Colorful Oklahoma Governor Warns Democrats Against Roosevelt

NAME IS ENTERED
Makes Statement as Paper Is Filed

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—Governor William H. (Alfalfa) Bill Murray of Oklahoma today entered his name, his moustache and his colorful personality in Ohio's presidential preference primary.

He simultaneously issued a statement which politicians interpreted as a warning to Ohio Democrats against allowing Governor George White to deliver the Ohio delegation to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt at the Democratic national convention.

ON BALLOT
Murray's name will appear on the preference primary ballot on May 10 but he will make no effort to obtain an Ohio delegation, according to Charles Hubbell, Cleveland Democrat who filed his petition.

No other Democrat has entered the primary Ohio although the state delegation is now being pledged to Governor White, with a "harmony provision" that the votes be transferred to Newton D. Baker, former Governor James M. Cox or U. S. Senator Robert J. La Follette, other Ohio Democrats, if the White boom fails.

"The Ohio Democracy," said Murray, "should not be deceived into voting for one man who would deliver the party to another alien to the state for aggressive consideration of mutual political promotion between the two men making the agreement."

ISSUES PROTECT
The latter statement was believed to be a protest against reported hopes of Ohio Democrats to have Governor White named candidate for vice president if Governor Roosevelt heads the ticket.

"Political barter and intrigue," Murray's statement concluded, "will continue the evils of the time."

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—Opposition to Governor George White as Ohio's "favorite son" candidate in the Democratic presidential convention sprang up unexpectedly today from Cleveland and Toledo.

Peter Witt and Richard T. Mills of Cleveland and S. Leo Corbitt and Thomas J. O'Connor of Toledo announced they will permit the use of their names as candidates for the Democratic nomination by candidates for delegates and alternates in their home districts.

MILLION LOST IN FLAMES AT DAYTON HOME

Quartermaster Building Completely Destroyed by Blaze Which Rages Uncontrolled for Three Hours; Three Walls of Building Collapse Although No One is Reported Hurt

DAYTON, O., March 11.—Congress may be asked immediately to appropriate funds for the construction of a new quartermaster's building to replace the structure which was destroyed by fire this morning, officials of the National Military home said today.

The cause of the blaze, which threw flames and clouds of smoke high into the air and attracted scores of spectators from the surrounding country, was unknown immediately. It was believed by fire officials, however, to have been started either from a carelessly tossed cigarette or a defective electric wire.

DAYTON, O., March 11.—The quartermaster building of the National Military home near here was completely destroyed today by a spectacular fire which raged uncontrolled for three hours and caused damages estimated in the neighborhood of $1,250,000.

RELIEF MEET IS UNCERTAIN

Governor's Conference Leaves Situation Still Undecided; Opinions Differ.

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—Cities demanding that Governor George White call the legislature into special session received a hard blow today after a conference between the governor and assembly leaders yesterday.

Two of the legislative leaders called into conference with the governor flatly said they are "not convinced of the necessity" of a special session for poor relief.

WHITE UNDERTERMINED
The governor himself indicated he will not reach a decision for at least 10 days and denied reports which say he has already determined to call the assembly back.

Senator David H. DeArmond (D) of Hamilton, minority leader in the upper branch, was openly hostile to a session of the two houses now, and Representative Lester J. Abele (R) of Cleveland, house majority leader, declared he neither favored nor opposed a session, but that "I am not personally convinced of its need."

Speaker Arthur Hamilton (R) of Lebanon, and Senator Earl R. Lewis (R) of St. Clairsville, the two assembly leaders, would not state their views.

Only one in the group indicated a leaning toward a special session. Representative J. Freer Bittinger (D) of Ashland, house minority leader, said "if the governor feels it is necessary, we are ready to go along. I believe his program has a good chance of getting through the house."

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 11.—"Bluebeard" Harry F. Powers' walk to the gallows will be held at 9 p. m. on March 18, in the Moundsville penitentiary, authorities said today.

Notice of the time for Powers' execution was sent to Harrison-co Sheriff W. B. Grimm here by Warden A. C. Scroggins. Powers recently was denied a new trial after he was convicted of murdering Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke of Northboro, Mass., in his garage slaughter-house.

"QUARRY MURDER" SUSPECT IS HELD

LIMA, O., March 11.—Despite his protest that he is being "framed," James May, 21, today was under arrest for the third time in the mysterious quarry murders in Earl Treadwell, 20, and his 17-year-old "girl friend," Thelma Wood.

Prosecutor Ernest Botkin declared that he is now convinced that May can be convicted of the murder along with Lloyd Ziegler, 20, and Both White, 23, both inmates of the Mansfield reformatory.

May was re-arrested yesterday on the basis of two confessions of the crime said to have been made by Ziegler in which the latter supposedly said he killed Treadwell and May murdered the girl to prevent her from talking.

The sudden cold weather of the last few days has made heavy demands on township trustees and charitable organizations throughout the city and the county.

MRS. HOOVER, ASHVILLE, DIES

Native of Scioto-Twp Passes Away; Funeral Services To Be Sunday At 1 P. M.

Mrs. Martha Ellen Hoover, aged 69, widow of William H. Hoover, died at her home in Ashville Thursday at 8:20 p. m. Uremic poisoning caused her death.

She was a native of Scioto-twp, being born Sept. 16, 1862, the daughter of John and Clara Roby Robinson.

She was married Feb. 7, 1883, to William Henry Hoover who preceded her in death.

Surviving are two sons, Grover C. Hoover of Delaware and Robinson R. Hoover of Point Pleasant, W. Va., and two daughters, Mrs. Ethel Leonard and Mrs. Mabel Isham, both of Ashville.

Funeral services will be Sunday at 1 p. m. at the United Brethren church in Ashville, of which she was a member, with Rev. Hiles officiating. Burial will be in Darbyville cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

Arthur Tootle, 29, of Perry-twp, was adjudged insane Friday on the testimony of Drs. J. B. May and Howard Jones. He was to be taken to Athens state hospital.

Tootle, who has been living in Akron, was taken into custody for examination at the home of his father near New Holland.

He was placed in the county jail Thursday and after being confined there broke a window glass, tore loose gas pipes and broke an electricity conduit.

Other prisoners in the jail were frightened by his actions and it was necessary to place the man in a cell.

FRIGID WEATHER BRINGS AID CRY

been too cold for some of them to carry on the work.

One interesting story of need was related Friday of a family of 11 persons, most of whom are children in school. One member of the family solicited Miss Southward for aid one evening saying that no one in the family had eaten a bite since morning. Even though it was after working hours Miss Southward went to the organization's headquarters and filled a basket.

The next evening she was again solicited by a member of the same family who told her of being out of food from breakfast time. The large basket of food Miss Southward had given the family the night before had been exhausted by the family of 11.

The Benevolent Association has been providing milk for indigent children in the schools of the city. Seventy-two have been regularly given nourishment and Thursday five more were added.

Employees of the Mary Nolan Gown Shop in Hollywood testified that Miss Nolan and MacRery had not paid them for their services.

MacRery said the shop operated only 40 days and lost $12,000.

Miss Nolan denied that Salvador Santaella, noted pianist had given her $1,200 to pay employees' wages.

ALFALFA BILL PUTS NAME IN OHIO PRIMARY

Colorful Oklahoma Governor Warns Democrats Against Roosevelt

NAME IS ENTERED
Makes Statement as Paper Is Filed

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—Governor William H. (Alfalfa) Bill Murray of Oklahoma today entered his name, his moustache and his colorful personality in Ohio's presidential preference primary.

He simultaneously issued a statement which politicians interpreted as a warning to Ohio Democrats against allowing Governor George White to deliver the Ohio delegation to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt at the Democratic national convention.

ON BALLOT

Murray's name will appear on the preference primary ballot on May 10 but he will make no effort to obtain an Ohio delegation, according to Charles Hubbell, Cleveland Democrat who filed his petition.

DEADLINE IS 6:30

Prospective candidates who have not yet filed their petitions had until 6:30 p. m. Friday to do so. Several who have not yet obtained the necessary number of signatures were scurrying through the city and county in an effort to do so.

Although no last minute candidates have been announced it is possible one or two new names will be learned when the list of candidates is announced by Harry E. Well, clerk of the board of elections.

No other Democrat has entered the primary in Ohio, although the state delegation is now being pledged to Governor White, with a "harmony provision" that the votes be transferred to Newton D. Baker, former Governor James M. Cox or U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley, other Ohio Democrats, if the White boom fails.

"The Ohio Democracy," said Murry, "should not be deceived into voting for one man who would deliver the party to another, alien to the state, for agreed consideration of mutual political promotion between the two men making the agreement."

ISSUES PROTECT
The latter statement was believed to be a protest against reported hopes of Ohio Democrats to have Governor White named candidate for vice president if Governor Roosevelt heads the ticket.

"Political barter and intrigue," Murry's statement concluded, "will continue the evils of the time."

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—Opposition to Governor George White as Ohio's "favorite son" candidate in the Democratic presidential convention sprang up unexpectedly today from Cleveland and Toledo.

Peter Witt and Richard T. Mills of Cleveland, and S. Leo Cottrill and Thomas J. O'Connor of Toledo announced they will permit the use of their names as candidates for the Democratic nomination by candidates for delegates and alternates in their home districts.

FOURTH HELD IN KIDNAPING

De Jute Case Continues As Youngstown Man Is Held; 'Brains' of Plot Held.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 11.—At the request of Trumble-co Detective H. H. Hampton, Mike Harrison, 37, of Youngstown, today was arrested in connection with the kidnaping of 12-year-old James De Jute, Jr., Niles school boy, ten days ago.

Arrest of Harrison came within a few hours of the third arrest of Tony La Rocca, who it was revealed today had been secretly indicted as the "brains" of the kidnaping gang. Two other men are held in Warren under indictment in the case.

BLONDE STAR TO HEAR SENTENCE

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Mary Nolan, blonde film star, and her husband, Wallace MacRery, were to be sentenced today following their conviction of violating the state law governing payment of employees' wages.

Employees of the Mary Nolan Gown Shop in Hollywood testified that Miss Nolan and MacRery had not paid them for their services.

MacRery said the shop operated only 40 days and lost $12,000.

Miss Nolan denied that Salvador Santaella, noted pianist had given her $1,200 to pay employees' wages.

MILLION LOST IN FLAMES AT DAYTON HOME

Quartermaster Building Completely Destroyed by Blaze Which Rages Uncontrolled for Three Hours; Three Walls of Building Collapse Although No One is Reported Hurt

DAYTON, O., March 11.—Congress may be asked immediately to appropriate funds for the construction of a new quartermaster's building to replace the structure which was destroyed by fire this morning, officials of the National Military home said today.

DAYTON, O., March 11.—The quartermaster building of the National Military home near here was completely destroyed today by a spectacular fire which raged uncontrolled for three hours and caused damages estimated in the neighborhood of $1,250,000.

The cause of the blaze, which threw flames and clouds of smoke high into the air and attracted scores of spectators from the surrounding country, was unknown immediately. It was believed by fire officials, however, to have been started either from a carelessly tossed cigarette or a defective electric wire.

WALLS COLLAPSE
Although three walls of the building, a brick structure, collapsed the flames swept through it. One was reported injured.

Fire companies combined to the conflagration. Four departments, with a force of 60 were rushed to the scene of Dayton under the charge of Chief W. W. McFadden.

Other firefighters were from Lakeside, the Soldiers' Home, Johnsonville, and other neighboring suburbs and villages.

The entire contents of the building, which was of three stories and occupied an entire city block, were destroyed. The structure was used to house all supplies of medicines, foods and clothing for the military home.

Included among the stuff destroyed by the flames was $45,000 worth of cloth for uniforms that had just been received at the quartermaster's building yesterday.

Only enough food supplies were in the military home following the fire to last for today. The remainder of the food-stuffs for the home were destroyed.

HINES NOTIFIED
Col. Fred C. Runkle, governor of the home, telegraphed Brigadier Frank E. Hines at Washington, immediately to notify him of the situation. Although it was not known immediately, it was expected that a federal investigation would be made of the fire.

The conflagration started at 5:15 o'clock this morning and raged uncontrolled until about 8 a. m.

The military home, a federal institution, houses 3,800 veterans of all wars.

The building, which was destroyed today, was originally built at a cost of $400,000.

SCHOOL HEADS TO MEET HERE

Question of School Teachers' Salaries To Be Important One Saturday.

More than 100 members of Pickaway-co's township and village school boards will gather in the common pleas court room Saturday at 10 a. m. when questions of utmost importance to the administration of schools will be discussed.

Prof. D. L. Buchanan, county superintendent of schools, will be in charge of the meeting.

Probably the most important question to be discussed at the meeting will be that of teachers' salaries. In line with the reduction of teachers' pay will come the question of economy in the operation of the schools.

Twelve discussion questions have been outlined by Prof. Buchanan with a possibility that others will be brought into the meeting.

Board members who attend the meeting will receive pay.

The meeting is open to the public and from present prospects the court room will be filled.

EAT GREENS FOR THEIR MINERAL SALTS AND VITAMINS
Dandelion greens—and other spring greens for that matter—come at the time of the year that grandmother used to dose the family with sulphur and molasses. So it was, according to a distinguished authority on foods, that sulphur and molasses got the credit while dandelions did the work.

In other words, says the Bureau of Agriculture, the appetizing dish of spring greens which grandmother served, cooked no doubt with salt pork or bacon fat, was what the family needed in the spring and not the dose of medicine. For winter food they had depended largely on the vegetables stored in the cellar and these for the most part were roots, which grow underground and away from the sun. By springtime the family felt the need of something to "thin the blood," whereupon the sulphur and molasses came down off the shelf.

In reality, food scientists explain, the family needed certain food substances which are not abundant in most of the root vegetables. Those substances are not present in sulphur at all and are present only in small quantities in molasses. But they are abundant in dandelion greens, turnips greens, mustard, beet tops, poke salad, kale, collard, chard watercress, broccolo, spinach, cabbage—all the greens, in fact.

Nowadays the housewife does not have grandmother's winter food problems, so sulphur and molasses are out of date. Green foods are shipped at all seasons to the parts of the country where they do not grow, and fewer families need to be without "greens" in winter. For that matter, turnips greens, and some of the other more hardy kinds, can be had from the family garden in many parts of the country most of the year.

Properly speaking, "greens" is the term for all the green leafy vegetables, lettuce and other salad greens as well as the leaves that are cooked. To grandmother, however, and to many people nowadays, "greens" are the green leaves of plants such as dandelion, mustard, or spinach, and the green tops of beets and turnips; in other words, the greens which were usually cooked.

There along came salad. Cole slaw had always been popular, but a salad course at dinner was a new idea some thirty years ago. Presumably it was no accident that salads in about the time that food specialists learned the relation of green foods to health.

At first it was for their mineral content—calcium and iron especially—that greens were considered most valuable. Now it is for their minerals together with their vitamins. In a balanced diet, green leafy vegetables supply most of the vitamin A and vitamin C. They also furnish vitamin B and vitamin G.

Two of the vitamins, however B and C are easily destroyed in cooking. Therefore some of the foods that contain these vitamins should often be served raw, according to nutritionists. Raw cabbage, either shredded for salad, or dressed as cole slaw, is especially rich in vitamin C. All the salad greens, lettuce, romaine, endive, escarole, green leaves, however are much richer in vitamin than are the bleached leaves and stems. A salad with green leaves of lettuce, raw carrots sliced or grated, or with tomatoes is rich in at least four of the essential vitamins—A, B, C, and G.

Cooked greens, especially spinach, turnips tops, and collards are rich in vitamin A and G, but precautions must be taken to retain their vitamin E and C. To do this, and to hold mineral values, the Bureau of Agriculture gives the following directions for cooking greens:

After thorough washing, put the green in a small quantity boiling salted water. Cook without a cover for as short a time as possible to make the greens tender but still firm. The small quantity of water is recommended because of the mineral and vitamin values will be lost if there is so much water that the greens must be drained. Some greens—spinach and young dandelions—will need no cooking water except that which clings to the leaves after washing. Cooking without a cover will help to keep the color of the greens.

Greens are sometimes cooked in milk, which adds to the food value, because the milk with its own food value, plus that cooked out of the greens, is served in the same dish. When cooked with meat, greens should be put in the cooking-water after the meat itself has cooked. Otherwise they will be overcooked.

A combination of two or more kinds of greens, such as beet and turnips tops, field cress and spinach, corn salad and mustard greens, makes a savory dish when seasoned with bacon fat, or with butter and chopped onion.

DINNER
Corned beef hash, wilted dandelion greens, bread and butter, cocoa and oatmeal drop cookies.
SUPPER
Quick turnip soup, crackers or toast, apple fritters and syrup, (apple sauce and cookies for youngest children), milk for all.

RECIPES
Corned Beef Hash
1½ pounds corned beef, cooked.
7 large boiled potatoes.
Onion to flavor.
Dash of cayenne pepper.
Salt.
Put meat, potatoes, and onion through the meat grinder, using the fine knife. Add the cayenne and salt to taste and mix thoroughly. Grease lightly a heavy skillet. Pat in the hash in an even layer and cook over low heat until a golden brown crust is formed. When brown, place a pan or lid over the skillet and turn the hash out so the browned side is on top. Slip the uncooked side in the skillet and allow this side to become golden brown. Turn out on a plate, garnish with parsley, and serve, once.

WILTED DANDELION GREENS
2 or 3 quarts dandelion greens.
4 tablespoons bacon fat.
¼ cup mild vinegar.
1 teaspoon salt.
Wash the greens thoroughly, and cut into small pieces with scissors. Heat the bacon fat, vinegar, and salt in a skillet, add the greens, cover, and cook at moderate heat until the greens are wilted. Serve at once.

QUICK TURNIP SOUP
1½ quarts milk.
1 large onion, cut in half.
2 tablespoons flour.
3 tablespoons melted butter or other fat.
3 cups grated raw turnip.
1½ teaspoons salt.
Chopped parsley.
Heat the milk in a double boiler with the onion, add the flour and fat, which have been well blended, then the turnip, and salt. Cook until the turnip is tender, or for about 10 minutes, and remove the onion. Sprinkle chopped parsley over the soup just before serving.

APPLE FRITTERS
3 medium sized tart apples.
1 cup sifted flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
2½ cup milk.
1 egg, well beaten.
Fat for frying.
Pare, core, and cut the apples in crosswise slices about ¼ inch thick. Sift the dry ingredients. Add the milk to the well beaten egg, then pour slowly into the dry mixture, and stir until smooth. Heat fat of good flavor until a cube of bread will brown in 1 minute. Dip the apple rings into the batter, drain, and put slowly into the hot fat without splattering. Cook from 3 to 5 minutes, or until the apples are tender and the fritter a golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper, and serve with syrup.

AUTO THE MORE DEADLY OWOSSO Mich.—Does the train run into the auto more often than the auto crashes into the train? For those who care to know Kit F. Clardy, member of the public utilities commission states that out of 150 serious auto-train accident records the automobile was the aggressor in more than 75 instances.

Good looks aren't always luck

Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion depend on good health. The beautiful woman guards against constipation. She knows this condition can cause headaches, sallow skin, dull eyes, pimples, premature aging.

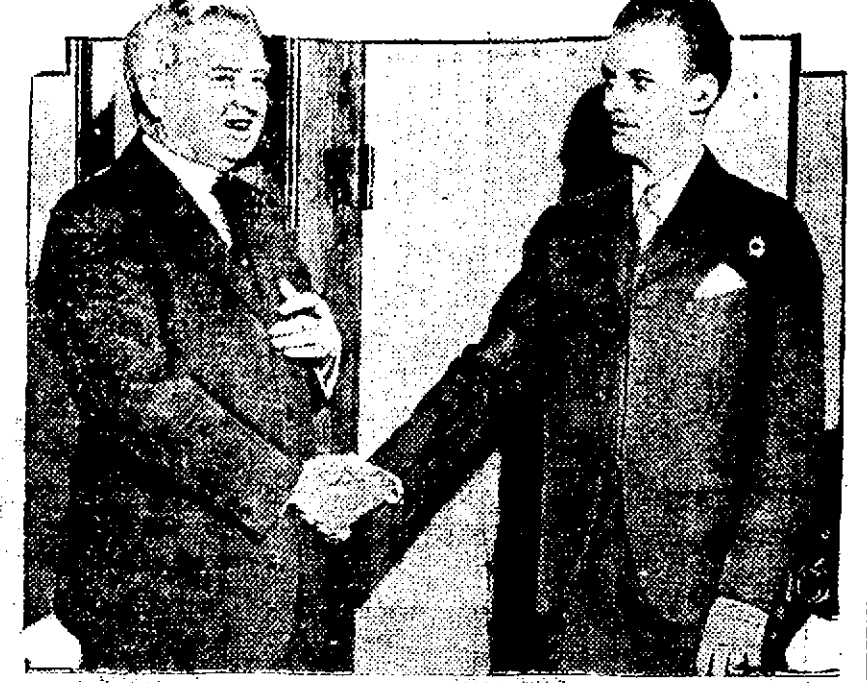

Protect yourself from constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN furnishes blood-building iron. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. The body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much safer than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonsfuls daily—in serious cases, with every meal—will correct most types of constipation. If your trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or use in cooking. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Odds and Ends

The amount of insurance some men carry flatters them. Civilization may be saved, but it will never look the same again. Some men are darned lazy that spring fever can't make an impression on them.

Something along the New York stock exchange road to riches seems to have stalled.

Some people do well to listen to other people's troubles. They forget their own. Marking a half century of scientific investigation in Ohio agriculture, the fifty annual report of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, issued last week, throws into the limelight some of the more recent discoveries on the control of plant diseases, crop and livestock production, and other fields of interest to the Ohio farmer.

It's harder for young men in the country to find a wife than it is for their city cousins, according to a recent analysis made from the last census by P. G. Beck, rural sociologist at the Ohio State University, who finds that for every 100 women in the country there are 127 young men between the ages of 15 and 24, but in villages and towns under 2,500 population there are 103 young men in this age group for every 100 women.

EAT GREENS FOR THEIR MINERAL SALTS AND VITAMINS

Dandelion greens—and other spring greens for that matter—come at the time of the year that grandmother used to dose the family with sulphur and molasses. So it was, according to a distinguished authority on foods, that sulphur and molasses got the credit while dandelions did the work.

In other words, says the Bureau of Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the appetizing dish of spring greens which grandmother served, cooked no doubt with salt pork or bacon fat, was what the family needed in the spring and not the dose of root vegetables. For winter food they had depended largely on the vegetables stored in the cellar, and these for the most part were roots, which grow underground and away from the sun. By springtime the family felt the need of something to "thin the blood," whereupon the sulphur and molasses came down off the shelf.

In reality, food scientists explain the family needed certain food substances which are not abundant in most of the root vegetables. These substances are not present in sulphur at all, and are present only in small quantities in molasses. But they are abundant in dandelion greens, turnips, mustard, beet tops, poke salad, kale, collard, chard, watercress, broccolo, spinach, cabbage—all the greens, in fact.

Nowadays the housewife does not have grandmother's winter food problems, so sulphur and molasses are out of date. Green foods are shipped at all seasons to the parts of the country where they do not grow, and fewer families need to be without "greens" in winter. For that matter, turnips, greens, and some of the other more hardy kinds, can be had from the family garden in many parts of the country most of the year.

Properly speaking, "greens" is the term for all the green leafy vegetables, lettuce and other salad greens as well as the above. That are cooked. To grandmother, however, and to many people nowadays, "greens" are the green leaves of plants such as dandelion, mustard, or spinach, and the green tops of beets and turnips; in other words, the greens which were usually cooked.

Then along came salad. Cole slaw had always been popular, but a salad course at dinner was a new idea some thirty years ago. Presumably it was no accident that salads in about the time that food specialists learned the relation of green foods to health.

At first it was for their mineral content—calcium and iron especially—that greens were considered most valuable. Now it is for their minerals together with their vitamins. In a balanced diet, green leafy vegetables supply most of the vitamin A and vitamin C. They also furnish vitamin B and vitamin G.

Two of the vitamins, however B and C are easily destroyed in cooking. Therefore some of the foods that contain these vitamins should often be served raw, according to nutritionists. Raw cabbage, either shredded for salad, or dressed as cole slaw, is especially rich in vitamin C. All the salad greens, lettuce, romaine, endive, escarole, green leaves, however are much richer in vitamin than are the bleached leaves and stems. A salad with green leaves of lettuce, raw carrots sliced or grated, or with tomatoes, is rich in at least four of the essential vitamins—A, B, C, and G.

Cooked greens, especially spinach, turnips tops, and collards are rich

in vitamin A and G, but precautions must be taken to retain their vitamin E and C. To do this, and to hold mineral values, the Bureau of Economics gives the following directions for cooking greens:

After thorough washing, put the green in a small quantity boiling salted water. Cook without a cover for as short a time as possible to make the greens tender but still firm. The small quantity of water is recommended because of the mineral and vitamin values will be lost if there is so much water that the greens must be drained. Some greens—spinach and young dandelions—will need no cooking water except that which clings to the leaves after washing. Cooking without a cover will help to keep the color of the greens. Greens are sometimes cooked in milk, which adds to the food value, because the milk with its own food value, plus that cooked out of the greens, is served in the same dish. When cooked with meat, greens should be put in the cooking-water after the meat itself has been cooked. Otherwise they will be overcooked.

A combination of two or more kinds of greens, such as beet and turnips tops, field cress and spinach, corn salad and mustard greens, makes a savory dish when seasoned with bacon fat, or with butter and chopped onion.

MENU BREAKFAST

Grapefruit, cooked cereal, coffee (adults), milk (children).

DINNER

Corned beef hash, wilted dandelion greens, bread and butter, cocoa and oatmeal drop cookies.

SUPPER

Quick turnip soup, crackers or toast, apple fritters and syrup, (apple sauce and cookies for youngest children), milk for all.

RECIPES

Corned Beef Hash

1½ pounds corned beef, cooked.
7 large boiled potatoes.
Onion to flavor.
Dash of cayenne pepper.
Salt.

Put meat, potatoes, and onion through the meat grinder, using the fine knife. Add the cayenne and salt to taste and mix thoroughly. Grease lightly a heavy skillet. Pat in the hash in an even layer and cook over low heat until a golden brown crust is formed. When brown, place a pan or lid over the skillet and turn the hash out so the browned side is on top. Slip the uncooked side in the skillet and allow this side to become golden brown. Turn out on a plate, garnish with parsley, and serve at once.

WILTED DANDELION GREENS

2 or 3 quarts dandelion greens.
4 tablespoons bacon fat.
¼ cup mild vinegar.
1 teaspoon salt.

Wash the greens thoroughly, and cut into small pieces with scissors. Heat the baconfat, vinegar, and salt in a skillet, add the greens, cover, and cook at moderate heat until the greens are wilted. Serve at once.

QUICK TURNIP SOUP

1½ quarts milk.
1 large onion, cut in half.
2 tablespoons flour.
3 tablespoons melted butter or other fat.

3 cups grated raw turnip.
1½ teaspoons salt.
Chopped parsley.

Heat the milk in a double boiler with the onion, add the flour and fat, which have been well blended, then the turnip, and salt. Cook until the turnip is tender, or for about 10 minutes, and remove the onion. Sprinkle chopped parsley over the soup just before serving.

APPLE FRITTERS

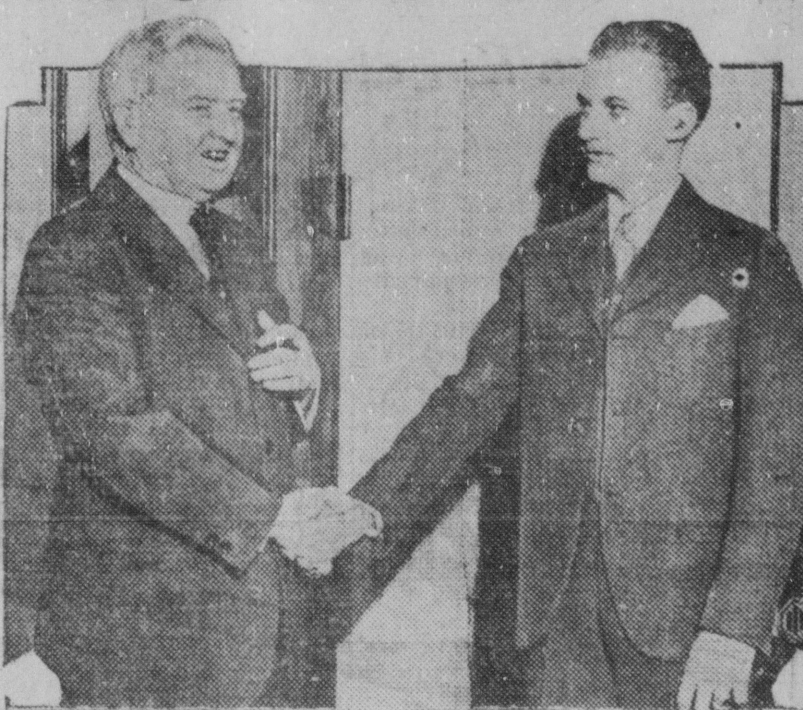

3 medium sized tart apples.
1 cup sifted flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2-3 cup milk.
1 egg, well beaten.
fat for frying.

Pare, core, and cut the apples in crosswise slices about ¼ inch thick. Sift the dry ingredients. Add the milk to the well beaten egg, then pour slowly into the dry mixture, and stir until smooth. Heat fat of good flavor until a cube of bread will brown in 1 minute. Dip the apple rings into the batter, drain, and put slowly into the hot fat without splattering. Cook from 3 to 5 minutes, or until the apples are tender and the fritter a golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper, and serve with syrup.

AUTO THE MORE DEADLY

OWOSSO, Mich.—Does the train run into the auto more often than the auto crashes into the train? For those who care to know Kit E. Good looks aren't always luck

Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion depend on good health. The beautiful woman guards against constipation. She knows this condition can cause headaches, sallow skin, dull eyes, pimples, premature aging.

Protect yourself from constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN furnishes blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much safer than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily—in serious cases, with every meal—will correct most types of constipation. If your trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or use in cooking. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Fate of the Critic

The world that is so crafty and so smug has a way of dealing with those who lash it—its satirists and cynics. It honors them with many editions, with standard biographies, with a place in history and with monuments and niches in halls of fame. Behind these things it goes its own way. Its game is a slick one and a double one.

Deny the satirist a public and his message is of no avail. Give him one and he is as helpless. One cannot but admire the world in a way for that. What an infinite capacity it has for taking pains, what a splendid tough skin that has easily endured so many years and so many assaults, what an ability, jargon of the prize ring, for "absorbing punishment." All so neatly. All as though it knew where it was going and didn't want to be bothered. It is like the magician of Norse mythology who, when struck by Thor's hammer, was nearly riven, yet yawned and asked, "Did an acorn fall?"

The world likes its great men of thought and vision. It will do anything for them but follow or heed them, save in its own time, on its own terms.

Satire is both a duty and a pleasure for the satirist. But not even such masters of satire as Swift and Voltaire probably deceived themselves into thinking they were taken seriously by any large number. Those who think differently from his look for the proverbial tongue in the cheek, and few who sense the truth in the satire have a happy faculty of applying the picture to all but themselves.

Handicapped

If the condition of the eyes of American school children is as bad as pictured by the Guild of Prescription Opticians of America, the situation demands immediate attention from school administrators, teachers and parents. There should be no neglect of children's eyes and poverty should deprive no child of proper examination and treatment.

It is the opinion of the organized opticians that 2,100,000 school children are retarded in their studies because of defective vision. Because the cost of teaching the backward child is greater than that of teaching the normal pupil, it is estimated impaired sight is costing the school system of the nation $135,000,000 a year. This, of course, is only conjectural.

Of all the organs of the human body the eye is the most sensitive and gets the most work to do. Since man learned to read, began to work with his eyes and substituted artificial light for natural light, the increase in cases of eye strain has been tremendous.

As far as the schools are concerned there has been great improvement in recent years. The eyes of every child are carefully examined periodically and where the parent cannot pay for needed treatment and glasses the schools in some cities furnish them. This work is saving eyes and reducing education costs.

One important phase of this work the parent must do alone is the care of the eyes of children below school age. Doubtless, there are many children whose optical troubles might have been corrected before reaching school age.

The Eternal Quest

WHEN men and women pass their eightieth milestone, and especially when they become nonagenarians or centenarians they are invariably interviewed by the local press on their secret of longevity of life. It is a custom which reveals man's desire to live long and his unceasing search for the spring of eternal youth.

Florida was discovered by a Spaniard while in search of the waters which he was told would restore his lost youth and guarantee to him everlasting life. All medical science has for its purpose the lengthening of human life.

Since the beginning of recorded time man has sought the secret of eternal life on earth. None has found that secret but many have prescribed rules to be followed by those who wish "to live to be a hundred."

Nietzsche's receipt for a full and happy old age was to "live dangerously; build your house on the side of a volcano."

Another advises those who have passed the brow of the hill that "youthfulness consists in forward looking; senility in backward looking."

A third philosopher on life has faith in the "work cure" for premature death.

In each theory there is much of wisdom. To live long must live actively. A man is as old as he makes himself. Those who refuse to grow old never lose the child heart of Menenius.

"The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER" by TOM GILL

SYNOPSIS

The Mexican peons, grown tired of Paco Morales' oppression, await the word from "El Coyote," their masked protector, to overthrow him. Morales has enlisted the aid of the U. S. Cavalry to capture the notorious bandit, Ted Radcliffe, a young American, learns that Morales was responsible for his late father's ruin. Bob Harkness, Ted's friend, urges him not to make an enemy of Morales, as he has other plans. Ted is enamored of Morales' beautiful niece, Adela. At a fiesta, Jito, Morales' ward, jealous of Ted, challenges him to a wrestling match. Ted wins, and Adela, sensing Jito's hatred, exacts a promise from Ted never to fight with him. Morales informs Bob that his men will join in the search for "El Coyote" and that Jito has dedicated himself to kill the bandit.

CHAPTER XIX

"Your pesos I do not greatly need," the young Mexican answered. "I will kill El Coyote for the joy of it. Instead I shall claim—what should I claim?" He smiled at the girl before him. "Should it be the love of our cousin Adela?"

Morales' stiff lips also smiled, but a little sadly. "If that were in my power to give, I should give it."

"But that will never be in your power to give away, will it, dear?" the girl asked. She patted his thin hand. "You must keep all the love I give you, ungracious one, not offer it to every hot-headed boy."

Ted broke the silence. "Why are you so bitter against this border thief? After all, there have been other bandits and cattle rustlers who have come and gone."

"Señor, if it were just a few head of cattle or horses he takes, or the few herdsmen of mine he has killed I should not greatly care. What are cows or peons? But El Coyote is no mere bandit. To me he represents the enemy. He carries with him disaster greater than the loss of those herds. He carries with him what might be the end of all that I and my fathers before me have built up—our right to rule here in the border. That is why."

"My fathers carved a domain out of a wilderness. They did it by sheer strength and by their will. It was their religion. It is my religion. This country is mine. Not so many years ago the peons about here were the slaves of my grandfather. They should still be slaves, and in all but name they are, for I am master, and this, as I see it, is right, and the will of God. And now comes this bandit dog and to the peon says: 'You are men. This land is yours. Yours is the right to own cattle and graze them, and yours is the right to marry and give your daughters in marriage, and if anyone comes between you and your liberty, kill him. See how little I fear this great master of yours. I kill his men, I burn his ranches, I take his best cattle. I cut his fences and I laugh.'"

"And, señor, he does all these things so that my people whisper and grow discontented and take heart and believe perhaps that they too can do these things and rise up against me. Already I hear murmurings. Already my Jito has had to teach fear to them when they refused to pay us the rents and the shares that are our due. These times are times of unrest in the border country, and if a leader should find his way to the hearts of these people—"

The voice shook in a moment's passion. "—for me and for all that my people have built up, it might be the end. Rather than that I should see myself dead. And I shall spend

"I think you'll forget all those fine-spun theories when you really love," Ted Radcliffe, said Adela.

my lifetime hunting down this dog—this son of a dog."

Morales had risen, and his face was jerking in anger. Quickly Adela came to his side, and her hand stroked his cheek.

"Be not aroused, my uncle," she whispered in quick Spanish. "You must not do this. Please, for me." And she petted and scolded him back to calmness, yet his hand still shook a little as he drained another glass of the straw-colored wine.

"You must forgive," he said at last. "It is the only subject in which I let myself become a foolish old man. That is my folly. But to answer your questions in a word, I hate this Coyote because he breaks my power. He damages my scheme of things." Resolutely he shook off the moment's weakness and was again able to smile, but the look of anxiety still remained in Jito's and Adela's eyes.

All zest had gone from the little group. The dinner was finished almost in silence, and later Adela spoke to Ted of her uncle's outburst against the bandit.

"My uncle's passion in life," she told him as they stood outside the patio, "is to continue this realm he has built up. It is for that he wants me to marry and have children. It was this tragedy that he himself had no children except—you will learn this sooner or later, for it is border gossip—except Jito, whose mother I never knew. Jito has come nearest to taking the place of a son, yet he cannot inherit. I wish he could. And now El Coyote threatens to arouse the people and topple over my uncle's kingdom. So for that he has hated the bandit with such hate as I am afraid to think of. He broods. It is unhealthy. I have watched him fail during the past years since this bandit came."

"But isn't all this thing that your uncle stands for destined to fall sometime?"

For a while the girl made no answer, looking out into the night. At last she turned and nodded quickly. "It is true," she said. "It seems almost treason for me to say it, but it cannot be otherwise. Only it will be the end of my uncle and all that he represents. And for me it would mean—quien sabe? What would you say I am fit for, Ted Radcliffe, in that busy world that you come from and that some day is going to engulf us here? I often wonder what I should be good for. I should be ever so much worse off than you when you found yourself cast adrift without warning. You have been brave not to let it make any difference to you."

"I shouldn't say it hasn't made any difference. So far as my future goes it may have made a great deal. For one thing, I am very nearly penniless. That's bound to create an important difference, whether I go back East or stay here. It shouldn't be it's bound to. Today Bob was joking with me about the need to marry a rich girl. At the present moment I haven't even the right to fall in love, and in the old days, when I was one of the world's eligible young men, I didn't avail myself of the opportunity."

Adela was watching him with a little frown. "You really mean that if you fell in love you wouldn't feel you had the right? That just because you lacked a few miserable dollars you would kill that love?"

"I'd go away, I suppose."

"In that case," she replied in her calm, judicial way, "I should say you would feel that you were applying to a disease, but it merely to the symptoms of a digestive disorder. As commonly used it refers to a disturbance of the liver, and is associated with something wrong with the formation of bile."

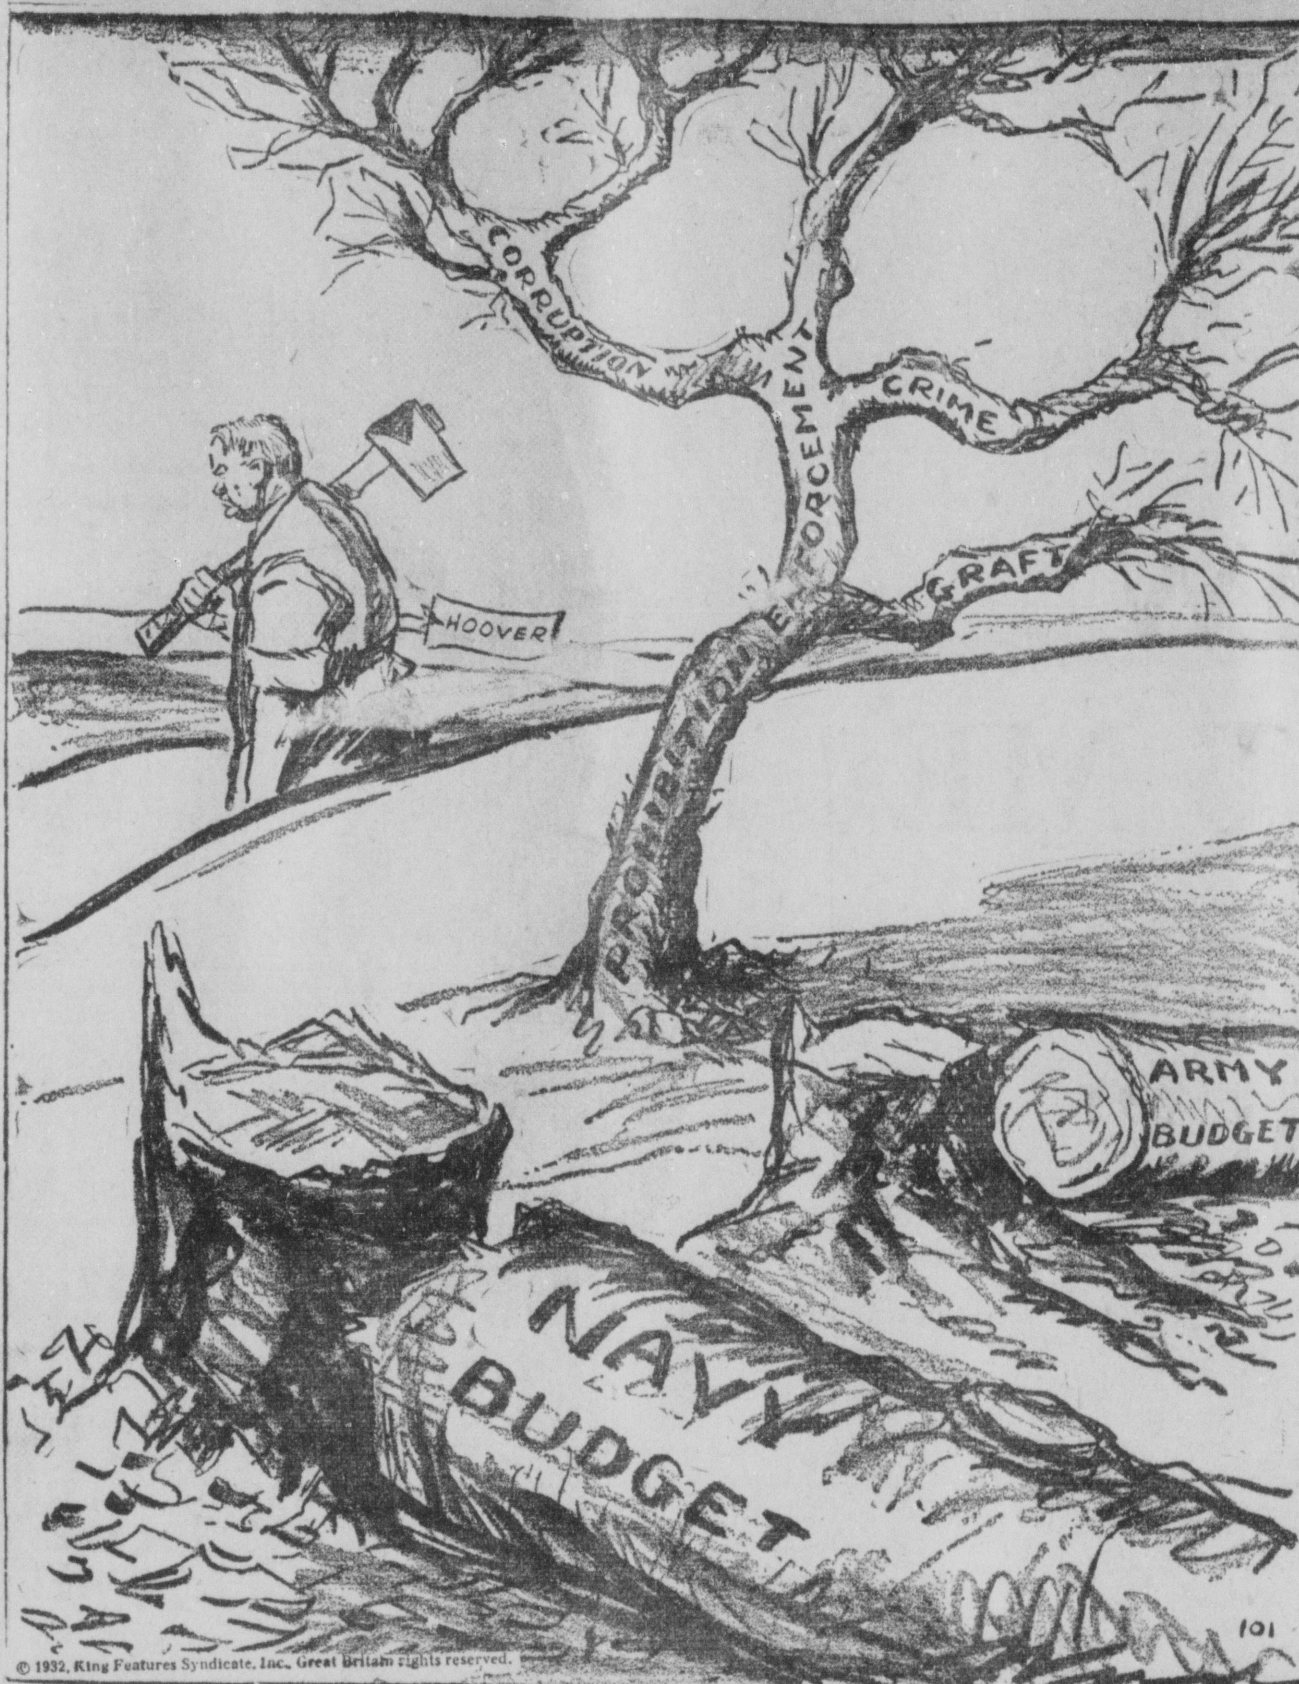

Whenever there is any disturbance in the processes involved in the secretion of bile, gastric disorders are sure to follow. There may be digestive disorders without any disturbance in the quantity or quality of the bile. For this reason, the word bilious is improperly used in many instances.

Digestion is influenced by many things. Primarily, the process of digestion depends largely on the condition of the stomach. It is affected by the state of the intestine, liver or pancreas, or even by the health of the mouth. From all these sources come certain juices which act in a definite manner upon the food we eat.

For example, when we chew food, saliva is secreted and added to it. The saliva has a definite action upon the food in the mouth and prepares

Biliousness Not a Disease; a Symptom of Indigestion

Failure to Chew Food Thoroughly, Thus Permitting It to Enter Stomach Without Sufficient Saliva, Is a Frequent Cause of Distress That May Be Acute.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"BILIOUSNESS" is an expression used to describe a condition in which there is a headache and a feeling of dizziness. The victim has a yellowish discoloration of the skin and complains of vague and discomforting pains. He is spoken of as "bilious looking."

Dr. Copeland

The word "bilious" is not applied to a disease, but merely to the symptoms of a digestive disorder. As commonly used it refers to a disturbance of the liver, and is associated with something wrong with the formation of bile.

Whenever there is any disturbance in the processes involved in the secretion of bile, gastric disorders are sure to follow. There may be digestive disorders without any disturbance in the quantity or quality of the bile. For this reason, the word bilious is improperly used in many instances.

Digestion is influenced by many things. Primarily, the process of digestion depends largely on the condition of the stomach. It is affected by the state of the intestine, liver or pancreas, or even by the health of the mouth. From all these sources come certain juices which act in a definite manner upon the food we eat.

For example, when we chew food, saliva is secreted and added to it. The saliva has a definite action upon the food in the mouth and prepares

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. K. Q.—I am greatly troubled with the skin peeling off the soles of my feet and the palms of my hands, making the parts sore. What would you suggest?

A.—This is probably due to eczema. Watch your diet and eliminate. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

it for digestion in the stomach. If the food is not properly prepared before it reaches the stomach, there is interference with gastric digestion. As a result of such interference, an excess of acids may pour into the stomach. These acids irritate the membrane lining of that organ and may cause the discomfort often referred to as biliousness.

Another result of this irritation is to disturb the normal circulation of the stomach. This disturbance sends reflexes to the intestine, liver and pancreas and produces distressing symptoms. The stomach is not able to do its work properly, and food leaves it in the form of a mass of half-digested and possibly fermented material. Then it cannot be properly handled by and absorbed in the intestine.

The thing that causes the most trouble is a lack of alkaline juices. These are necessary to neutralize the normal acid content of the stomach and to overcome the action of the additional acids of which I have spoken.

With decreased alkaline juices, there are likely to be headache and distress in the stomach. Occasionally there may be marked pain in the region of the stomach. A bad taste in the mouth is not unusual. There may be fever, but this is rare. The skin may have a yellowish appearance.

The general discomfort may be due to an absorption of poisons liberated by the incomplete digestion of food. This is one explanation for the severe headaches found in this condition. After vomiting, great relief is obtained because the stomach rid itself of undigested material.

Washing out the stomach gives great relief. The stomach is emptied by actually washing the stomach through a tube inserted by the administration of certain medicines.

Often the taking of alkaline medicine will relieve an attack of biliousness, neutralizing any excess acid that may be present in the stomach.

A. L. P. Q.—I have a patch on the right side of the stomach which itches quite badly. What would cause such trouble and what treatment would be of benefit?

A.—This may be due to eczema. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The mysterious horrors of old China, land of the bastinado and similarly ingenious methods of torture and punishment, play an important part in "The Hatchet Man," the first National and Vitaphone starring vehicle for Edward G. Robinson, now playing at the Cliftona Theatre.

Feared by his Chinese compatriots, revered by the members of his tong, Robinson, as Mr. Wong, mysteriously meets out punishment to his enemies. His hatchet strikes unexpectedly and leaves no indication or clue for further reprisal. The result is a state of continuous fear and horror which heightens the suspense and dramatic value of "The Hatchet Man."

The terror felt throughout Chinatown when "The Hatchet Man" is on the warpath is evident in the scenes of the Chinese quarter which show the streets empty, shops boarded up, windows and doors shut tight and curtained, and the people cowering in the dark corners of their homes. They neither know from where the hurled hatchet will come nor against whom it will be directed. Robinson's portrayal of the Honorable Mr. Wong, hatchet man, is a study in terrorism.

"The Hatchet Man," the screen's newest shocker, includes, in the cast supporting Robinson, Loretta

To be a trouper is the highest praise which can be meted out to a player either on the stage or on the screen. "The Last Ride" by Arthur Hoerle, which comes to the Grand Theatre on Saturday, has seven troupers. When Duke Worne, who directed this drama of love and treachery in newspaper and underworld life, selected his cast, he did it with a view to getting results. He has been directing too long to take chances with players or to start training them in an important production. He needed tried and proven talent. He got it.

Dorothy Revier, one of the most beautiful and colorful figures in Hollywood, began her screen career at Universal in support of Gladys Walton in a picture called "The Wild Party." Her success was almost immediate. She has played for almost every big moving picture company in pictures.

Fate of the Critic

THE world that is so crafty and so smug has a way of dealing with those who lash it—its satirists and cynics. It honors them with many editions, with standard biographies, with a place in history and with monuments and niches in halls of fame. Behind these things it goes its own way. Its game is a slick one and a double one.

Deny the satirist a public and his message is of no avail. Give him one and he is as helpless. One cannot but admire the world in a way for that. What an infinite capacity it has for taking pains, what a splendid tough skin that has easily endured so many years and so many assaults, what an ability, jargon of the prize ring, for "absorbing punishment." All so neatly. All as though it knew where it was going and didn't want to be bothered. It is like the magician of Norse mythology who, when struck by Thor's hammer, was nearly killed, yet yawned and asked, "Did that hurt?"

The world likes its great men of thought and vision. It will do anything for them but follow or heed them, save in its own time, on its own terms. Satire is both a duty and a pleasure for the satirist. But not even such masters of satire as Swift and Voltaire probably deceived themselves into thinking they were ever taken seriously by any large number. Those who think differently from the world for the proverbial tongue in their cheek, and who sense the truth in the satirist's happy faculty of applying the picture to all but themselves.

Handicapped

IF the condition of the eyes of American school children is as bad as pictured by the Guild of Prescription Opticians of America, the situation demands immediate attention from school administrators, teachers and parents. There should be no neglect of children's eyes and poverty should deprive no child of proper examination and treatment.

It is the opinion of the organization of opticians that 2,100,000 school children are retarded in their studies because of defective vision. Because the cost of teaching the backward child is greater than that of teaching the normal pupil, it is estimated impaired sight is costing the school system of the nation $135,000,000 a year. This, of course, is only conjecture.

Of all the organs of the human body the eye is the most sensitive and gets the most work. To do this it must be able to read, begin to work with its eyes and substituted artificial light for natural light, the increase in cases of eye strain has been tremendous.

As far as the schools are concerned there has been great improvement in recent years. The eyes of every child are carefully examined periodically and where the parent cannot pay for needed treatment and glasses the schools in some cities furnish them. This work is saving eyes and reducing education costs.

One important phase of this work the parent must do alone is the care of the eyes of children below school age. Doubtless, there are many children whose optical troubles might have been corrected before reaching school age.

The Eternal Quest

WHEN men and women pass their eightieth milestone, and especially when they become nonagenarians or centenarians they are invariably interviewed by the local press on their secret of longevity of life. It is a custom which reveals man's desire to live long and his unceasing search for the spring of eternal youth.

Florida was discovered by a Spaniard while in search of the waters which he was told would restore his lost youth and guarantee to him everlasting life. All medical science has for its purpose the lengthening of human life.

Since the beginning of recorded time man has sought the secret of eternal life on earth. None has found that secret but many have prescribed rules to be followed by those who wish "to live to be a hundred."

Nietzsche's receipt for a full and happy old age was to "live dangerously; build your house on the side of a volcano."

Another advice those who have passed the brow of the hill that "youthfulness consists in forward looking; senility in backward looking."

A third philosopher on life has faith in the "work cure" for premature death.

In each theory there is much of wisdom. To live long must live actively. A man is as old as he makes himself. Those who refuse to grow old never lose the child heart of Mowgli.

"The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER"

by TOM GILL

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE CO., INC. — DISSEMINATED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

The Mexican peons, grown tired of Paco Morales' oppression, await the word from "El Coyote," their masked protector, to overthrow him. Morales has enlisted the aid of the U. S. Cavalry to capture the notorious bandit, Ted Radcliffe, a young American, learns that Morales was responsible for his late father's ruin. Bob Harkness, Ted's friend, urges him not to make an enemy of Morales, as he has other plans. Ted is enamored of Morales' beautiful niece, Adela. At a fiesta, Jito, Morales' ward, jealous of Ted, challenges him to a wrestling match. Ted wins, and Adela, sensing Jito's hatred, exacts a promise from Ted never to fight with him. Morales informs Bob that his men will join in the search for "El Coyote" and that Jito has dedicated himself to kill the bandit.

CHAPTER XIX

"Your pesos I do not greatly need," the young Mexican answered. "I will kill El Coyote for the joy of it. Instead I shall claim—what should I claim?" He smiled at the girl before him. "Should it be the love of our cousin Adela?"

Morales' stiff lips also smiled, but a little sadly. "If that were in my power to give, I should give it." "But that will never be in your power to give away, will it, dear?" the girl asked. She patted his thin hand. "You must keep all the love I give you, ungracious one, not offer it to every hot-headed boy."

Ted broke the silence. "Why are you so bitter against this border thief? After all, there have been other bandits and cattle rustlers who have come and gone." "Señor, if it were just a few head of cattle or horses he takes, or the few herdsmen of mine he has killed I should not greatly care. What are cows or peons? But El Coyote is no mere bandit. To me he represents the enemy. He carries with him disaster greater than the loss of those herds. He carries with him what might be the end of all that I and my fathers before me have built up—our right to rule here in the border. That is why."

"My fathers carved a domain out of a wilderness. They did it by sheer strength and by their will. It was their will to rule. That was their religion. It is my religion. This country is mine. Not so many years ago the peons about here were the slaves of my grandfather. They should still be slaves, and in all but name they are, for I am master, and this, as I see it, is right, and the will of God. And now comes this bandit dog and to the peon says: 'You are men. This land is yours. Yours is the right to own cattle and graze them, and yours is the right to marry and give your daughters in marriage, and if anyone comes between you and your liberty, kill him. See how little I fear this great master of yours. I kill his men, I burn his ranches. I take his best cattle. I cut his fences and I laugh!'"

"And, señor, he does all these things so that my people whisper and grow discontented and take heart and believe perhaps that they too can do these things and rise up against me. Already I hear murmurings. Already my Jito has begun to teach fear to them when they refused to pay us the rents and the shares that are our due. These times are times of unrest in the border country, and if a leader should find his way to the hearts of these people—"

The voice shook in a moment's passion. "—for me and for all that my people have built up, it might be the end. Rather than that I should see myself dead. And I shall spend

"I think you'll forget all those fine-spun theories when you really love, Ted Radcliffe," said Adela.

my lifetime hunting down this dog—this son of a dog."

Morales had risen, and his face was jerking in anger. Quickly Adela came to his side, and her hand stroked his cheek.

"Be not aroused, my uncle," she whispered in quick Spanish. "You must not do this. Please, for me." And she petted and scolded him back to calmness, yet his hand still shook a little as he drained another glass of the straw-colored wine.

"You must forgive," he said at last. "It is the only subject in which I let myself become a foolish old man. That is my folly. But to answer your questions in a word, I hate this Coyote because he breaks my power. He damages my scheme of things." Resolutely he shook off the moment's weakness and was again able to smile, but the look of anxiety still remained in Jito's and Adela's eyes.

All zest had gone from the little group. The dinner was finished almost in silence, and later Adela spoke to Ted of her uncle's outburst against the bandit.

"My uncle's passion in life," she told him as they stood outside the patio, "is to continue this realm he has built up. It is for that he wants me to marry and have children. It was this tragedy that he himself had no children except—you will learn this sooner or later, for it is border gossip—except Jito, whose mother I never knew. Jito has come nearest to taking the place of a son, yet he cannot inherit. I wish he could. And now El Coyote threatens to arouse the people and topple over my uncle's kingdom. So for that he has hated the bandit with such hate as I am afraid to think of. He broods. It is unhealthy. I have watched him fail during the past years since this bandit came."

"But isn't all this that your uncle stands for destined to fall sometime?"

For a while the girl made no answer, looking out into the night. At last she turned and nodded quickly. "It is true," she said. "It seems almost true for me to say it, but it cannot be otherwise. Only it will be the end of my uncle and all that he represents. And for me it would mean—quite a sad fate. What would you say I am fit for, Ted Radcliffe, in that busy world that you come from and that some day is going to engulf us here? I often wonder what I should be good for. I should be ever so much worse off than you when you found yourself cast adrift without warning. You have been brave not to let it make any difference to you."

"I shouldn't say it hasn't made any difference. So far as my future goes it may have made a great deal. For one thing, I am very nearly penniless. That's bound to create an important difference, whether I go back East or stay here. It shouldn't be this bound to today Bob was joking with me about the need to marry a rich girl. At the present moment I haven't even the right to fall in love, and in the old days, when I was one of the world's eligible young men, I didn't avail myself of the opportunity."

Adela was watching him with a little frown. "You really mean that if you fell in love you wouldn't feel you had the right? That just because you lacked a few miserable dollars you would kill that love?"

"I'd go away, I suppose." "In that case," she replied in her calm, judicial way, "I should say you were what Jito calls 'one very damn fool.' What has love to do with anything but love?"

"I once thought that. Once, when I never had to think about the importance of three meals a day. But it wouldn't be a very heroic act, would it, for a man to ask a woman to starve with him, even for love's sake? Love, if it means anything, must mean protection and care."

Again she smiled. "I think you'll forget all those fine-spun theories when you really love, Ted Radcliffe."

"You're an expert, then, on that subject?"

"Oh, we Spanish are born with a knowledge about love. I have been in love so many times."

"Really?"

"Of course." Her eyes, like stars in the half-light, challenged him.

Biliousness Not a Disease; a Symptom of Indigestion

Failure to Chew Food Thoroughly, Thus Permitting It to Enter Stomach Without Sufficient Saliva, Is a Frequent Cause of Distress That May Be Acute.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"BILIOUSNESS" is an expression used to describe a condition in which there is a headache and a feeling of dizziness. The victim has a yellowish discoloration of the skin and complains of vague and discomforting pains. He is spoken of as "bilious looking."

The word "bilious" is not applied to a disease, but merely to the symptoms of a digestive disorder. As commonly used it refers to a disturbance of the liver, and is associated with something wrong with the formation of bile.

Whenever there is any disturbance in the processes involved in the secretion of bile, gastric disorders are sure to follow. There may be digestive disorders without any disturbance in the quantity or quality of the bile. For this reason, the word bilious is improperly used in many instances.

Indigestion is influenced by many things. Primarily, the process of digestion depends largely on the condition of the stomach. It is affected by the state of the intestine, liver or pancreas, or even by the health of the mouth. From all these sources come certain juices which act in a definite manner upon the food we eat.

For example, when we chew food, saliva is secreted and added to it. The saliva has a definite action upon the food in the mouth and prepares it for digestion in the stomach. If the food is not properly prepared before it reaches the stomach, there is interference with gastric digestion. As a result of such interference, an excess of acids may pour into the stomach. These acids irritate the membrane lining of that organ and may cause the discomfort often referred to as biliousness.

Another result of this irritation is to disturb the normal circulation of the stomach. This disturbance sends reflexes to the intestine, liver and pancreas and produces distressing symptoms. The stomach is not able to do its work properly and food leaves it in the form of a mass of half-digested and possibly fermented material. Then it cannot be properly handled by and absorbed in the intestine.

The thing that causes the most trouble is a lack of alkaline juices. These are necessary to neutralize the normal acidity of the stomach and to overcome the action of the additional acids of which I have spoken.

With decreased alkaline juices, there are likely to be headache and distress in the stomach. Occasionally there may be marked pain in the region of the stomach. A bad taste in the mouth is not unusual. There may be fever, but this is rare. The skin may have a yellowish appearance.

The general discomfort may be due to an absorption of poisons liberated by the incomplete digestion of food. This is one explanation for the severe headaches found in this condition. After vomiting, great relief is obtained because the stomach rid itself of undigested material.

Washing out the stomach gives great relief. The stomach is emptied by actually washing the stomach through a tube, or by the administration of certain medicines.

Often the taking of alkaline medicine will relieve an attack of biliousness, neutralizing any excess acid that may be present in the stomach.

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. K. Q.—I am greatly troubled with the skin peeling off the soles of my feet and the palms of my hands, making the parts sore. What would you suggest?

A.—This is probably due to eczema. Wash the sores with cold water. For the itching use a 5 per cent salicylic acid ointment and keep your feet cool.

A. L. P. Q.—I have a patch on the right side of the stomach which itches quite badly. What would cause such trouble and what treatment would be of benefit?

A.—This may be due to eczema. The proper treatment is to keep the patch cool and dry. Use a 5 per cent salicylic acid ointment and keep your stomach cool.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup of senna.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure peepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headachy, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup peepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup peepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Syrup peepsin isn't expensive.

ASHVILLE

The following seventh grade pupils have a C average or above: Ruth Courtright, Walter Gregg, Lucille Hedges, Jane Landsey, Marthe Martin, Bessie Maupin, Wilbur Neff, Grace Tiguer, and Richard Toole.

Walter Gregg made high score in grade seven on the Every Pupil Test of George Washington which was given Tuesday morning.

The score was 78 out of a possible 148. Elmer Mallory entered the seventh grade Tuesday. He formerly attended Barrett Jr. High in Columbus.

Those who were neither absent nor tardy in the first grade for the last six weeks were: Ellis Chme, Viola Mae Ward, Joan Tosca, Ben Ray, Paul Pettibone, Rosemaria Meyers, and Betty Mae Hunt.

The following third grade pupils have been neither absent nor tardy this school year: John Chamberlain, Edna Hunt, Clarence Rush and Beatrice Kibbee.

Miss Acord, music teacher, has been at home, ill with the flu, since Wednesday of this week.

In the fourth grade George Washington test Junior Neff made the highest score, 36, the lowest was 16, and the class median was 24.

Helen Spindler, Helen Boyer and Roberta Cromely of grade six participated in "The Women's Home Missionary program at the M. E. church, Friday afternoon.

In connection with the study of Ohio, the pupils of grade six are making maps showing "Historical and scenic points in the state," "Natural resources," "railroads and waterways" and "Early Indian tribes."

Every Pupil Tests, prepared by the State Department, were given in the upper grades last Tuesday. This test was on the life of George Washington. Gretchen Hedges, with a score of 91, had the highest score in the 8th grade.

In the George Washington test given to the grade last week the following medians were made: Grade III, 22; IV, 24; V, 25; VI, 26; VII, 56; and VIII, 67. This test was given to stimulate interest rather than to find out how much or how little the pupils knew about the Father of His Country.

Billie Cloud lead the third grade with a score of 31; Junior Neff, the second with 26; Paul Clark and Helen Kibbee the 5th, with 34; Helen Spindler, the sixth with 40; Walter Gregg, the seventh with 78; and Gretchen Hedges, the eighth, and the school, with 81 points.

Conrad's Follies gave a very interesting program last Friday evening at the high school building.

The following freshman students have an all A average in academic subjects for this fourth six-week period: Mary Jane Choate, Clementia Gloyd, Esther Ann Reid, Charlotte Rhodes, Amanda Wallen and Kathryn Baum.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Lundke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight. I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose weight quickly and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen safe—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

SECOND ANALYSIS OF OHIO'S NEW TAX LAW IS REPORTED

The second installment in a question-and-answer guide to Ohio's new tax law, follows:

Q. How may I file my return?

A. Returns may be made by mail or in person to the county auditor. If by mail, a self-addressed envelope should be enclosed for return of the auditor's certificate or treasurer's receipt.

Q. What rates do I pay?

A. Tangible Personal Property is taxed at the local real estate rate on fixed percentages of its value according to use as shown by blank form. The local rates, by taxing districts, are shown on the form for each county. These are stated on page 6 of the form, in the Classified Tax List table.

Q. How do I make out my return?

A. Read the instructions on page 2 of the blank form of returns and carefully note those which pertain to your case. Then begin with the first question on page 1 and follow through. Under each heading list only the taxable property called for by that particular heading. Where there is none, the word "none" should be written. Each question must be answered. The form, though extensive, is not difficult if followed through.

Q. How are taxes computed?

A. The taxpayer may compute his own taxes and necessarily will do so if the return is made by mail. The tables and instructions on page 6 of the blank form, under the heading of Recapitulation and Computation of Tax, make this a simple matter. There is one table, headed General Tax List, for intangible property. The local tax rates will be found at the bottom of page 4. The rates for the various classes of intangible property are stated in the column to the right of the Classified Tax List table.

Q. When do I pay my taxes?

A. Real estate taxes are to be paid as heretofore. Half of the estimated total tax on tangible and intangible personal property for 1932 is now to be paid in advance, the remainder by Sept. 20. It cannot be allowed to become delinquent as the return is not deemed filed until the advance payment is paid, and the 50 per cent penalty must be added if the return is not filed in time.

Q. How is payment to be made?

A. The advance payment may be made with the return. Otherwise, the auditor will certify the amount to the taxpayer for payment. In this case, ten days after March 31 is the time limit for making the advance payment. Checks for payment of taxes must be payable to the county treasurer.

The county auditors, as a rule, have organized and prepared their staffs to give personal assistance to taxpayers in making out their returns. It is the earnest advice of taxing authorities throughout the state that the taxpayers who wish to avail themselves of this assistance, do so immediately.

The auditors and their clerks have more time to give each taxpayer now than will be possible in the later rush. It is to the advantage of the taxpayer to make his return early.

When the game of field hockey was first played, back about 2,500 years ago, the sport was "or men only." Today there are only about 500 men players, while the women devotees are legion.

EXCESS OF TEACHERS LIKELY TO CONTINUE SAYS O. S. U. MAN

COLUMBUS, O., An oversupply of teachers is likely for several years to come, Dr. Earl W. Anderson, director of the appointments division Ohio State University predicts in the current Educational Research Bulletin, published by the university. His conclusion is reached in studying teaching opportunities for last year's graduates of education colleges.

Forty nine per cent of the 1931 graduates of the Ohio State University college of education obtained teaching positions, he reports, while 44 per cent were unable to obtain such positions. Similar conditions were found in other states where 61 universities, colleges and teachers' colleges reported an average placement of 55 per cent of their teacher-training graduates.

"The present oversupply has two causes," Dr. Anderson explains, "namely, excessive output on the part of training institution and reduced opportunities. When good times return, business and professional opportunities almost immediately draw from teaching many of those who came in from other occupations and those who took opportunities were closed."

Teacher training graduates last year "found more competition and fewer opportunities for teaching positions than have existed for a number of years," Dr. Anderson says. Serious decreases in school income last year, he says, resulted in smaller teaching staffs, heavier duties for individual teachers, and a few special subjects were dropped.

Of last year's graduates here, those qualified to teach industrial arts and those who specialized in Latin were most successful in obtaining positions. Other subjects in which more than two-thirds of the graduates obtained teaching positions were home economics, geography, chemistry and music. More than half of the graduates in history and in English were unable to obtain employment.

PAPA AND SISTER WERE TALKING ABOUT YOU LAST NIGHT

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S TRAVELS

ON the night of November 3, 1753, Washington was glad to see his friend, Lord Fairfax, ride unexpectedly into camp at Wills Creek, now Cumberland, Maryland, on U. S. Route 50. The titled Old Brasher had come to spend the night with the boy who was about to plunge into the wilderness on a doubtful mission. As they sat in silence before a crackling fire, rain and snow fell outside their shelter. At last, the old lord, knocking the ashes from his pipe, remarked: "Dinwiddie was a fool to send a boy on a mission like this." Washington said nothing.

FEW CHANGES ARE APPARENT FOR CLEVELAND INDIAN TEAM

NEW ORLEANS, March 11.—The only change in the Cleveland Indians this season as against the Indians of 1931 is in the attitude of Manager Roger Peckinpaugh. He is done with experimenting at shortstop, where the Tribe has dabbled with a dozen or more candidates in the last two years, and he is no longer willing to balance Eddie Morgan's .350 batting average against sub-major league fielding. Morgan, who plays first base, hit over .350 last season but his home run record fell from 26 to 11 and his work in the field was pretty bad.

REPLACE MORGAN
Power or not, Morgan will not play first base for the Tribe unless he can show a considerable improvement in the field and there is some doubt of that. Right now, Morgan is slated to warm the bench while the job is assigned to Bruce Connatser, a youngster who played a dozen games the tail-end of last season and made an impressive showing. Connatser is a hapless looking ball player, especially in the spring. Two years ago Terre Haute didn't want him but had to play him as it was then a Cleveland farm. Connatser hit .378. Last year, New Orleans didn't like his looks either but was persuaded to try him and he hit .334. There never has been any question about his ability to field. He's good.

If both Connatser and Morgan fail, there is Bill Sweeney, former Detroit and Boston first sacker, now with the Cleveland-owned Toledo club.

Otherwise, the Indians will take the field exactly the same as last season. The outfield is plenty good with the sensational youngster Vosmik in left, the home-run hitting Averill in center and Porter in right. This trio hit, respectively, .333, .320 and .312 last season. In reserve are the veteran Jamieson and young Seeds, both of them with averages over .300 and capable in the field.

MONTAGUE CERTAIN
The steady Kamm is still at third. Montague won the shortstop job last season and showed so much that Manager Peckinpaugh isn't even considering any other candidate.

The slugging Hodapp is on second. Burnett, who may beat out Hodapp for second, can also be used at third and short. Sewell and Myatt are on hand for the catching and there is a kid receiver named Pytlak from Buffalo who looks like a real comer. The brilliant Wesley Ferrell heads a strong pitching staff. Others considered regulars are Hudlin, Harder, Brown, Connally and Jablonowski with the latter two doing the bulk of relief pitching. The best of the youngsters is Hildebrand, with Indianapolis last season.

Last season the Tribe as a whole was only one point behind the Yankees in team batting. This batting punch and pretty good pitching were nullified by the worst infielding in the major league. This season, however, Connatser will provide more than capable defensive work at first base. Montague is good enough at short and Hodapp can hardly be as bad as last season.

COULD WEATHER MARS BIRD WORK
HOUSTON, Texas, March 11.—Postponement of the round-robin series in which the Columbus Red Birds will participate, appeared imminent today unless March calls off its wintry winds and snow. Manager Harry Leibold has had little chance to work with his main squad because of the cold. Did Purdy become the first casualty when he was ordered to bed with a heavy cold.

The Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League was formed in 1902, disbanded in 1908, and reorganized in 1911. F. J. Heppes of Philadelphia offered a trophy in 1911 to become the possession of any college winning three successive championships. Pennsylvania won it.

At Waterbury, Conn.—Henri De Glane, Montreal, claimant to world's championship, threw Stanley Pinto, Chicago in 18:00.
At Boston—Jim Browning, Verona, Mo., won from Charley Strack Spring Valley, N. Y., in straight

Husky Prospect
According to reports from their New Orleans training camp, Manager Peckinpaugh, of the Cleveland Indians, may have a real find in Charlie Reddock (above), rookie pitcher. Reddock is six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds. He is a right-hander with lots of speed.

Koenecke Broke Into Baseball As Catcher
NEW YORK, March 11.—Here is a little something about Frank Koenecke, the $75,000 rookie of the New York Giants who, in John McGraw's opinion, will become almost a celestial figure in balldom. Name is pronounced "Koeneche" but everybody calls him "Koeneckie." Outfielder. Throws right handed, bats the other way, 5 feet 10 tall, weigh 183. Age 25. Born in Barbo, Wisconsin. Lives in Adams, Wisconsin now. Married and one child. Is a high school graduate and also attended University of Wisconsin.

Had ambition to become a physical director. Quit College, without graduating, in 1924 and went to Esanaba, Wis., to play semi pro ball. There, for three years. And was a catcher. Went to Springfield, Illinois in 1927 and failed to make good as a backstop. Next played with Moline, Illinois starting as a catcher. An outfielder took sick one day and Koenecke "subbed" for him. He has been an outfielder since. In 1928 was sold to Indianapolis. Farmed out to Quincy. Back with Indianapolis in 1930. Still "too green." Shipped to Springfield and then to Quincy. Recalled by Indians for 1931 play, was given a regular job. Hit .345 and was lashed by the Giants.

ROSTERS FOR INTRAMURAL TILTS LISTED
High School Candidates Begin Practice Sessions During Past Week.

Following is the list of eligible male candidates for the boys' interclass, basketball teams of Circleville high school. Senior boys are Lutz Ashbrook, David Buchanan, Jack Chaffin, Frank Dunlap, Robert Elsea, Edward Greene, Robert Griffith, Albert Hoffman, Robert Humbley, George Les, Marvin Justice, John Kellstadt, Dudley Mills, Leory Moore and Charles Plum. These boys are coached by Carl Purcell and Ned Thacher.

The junior candidates who are coached by Bill Hegele and Dean White include Loring Eldridge, Stanley Frenk, Charles Glitt, Martin Hickey, Gaines Hill, John Laughlin, John Maxey, Edgar McCure, Orville Miller, John Moore, Paul Rooney, Paul Wallace, and Robert Wilson.

2 Infield Posts Cost Yankees $300,000
NEW YORK, March 11.—The shortstop and second base positions of the New York Yankees baseball squad have cost more money since 1925, when the team finished seventh in the flag race, than all the positions on an ordinary big league team.

During that time Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the team, has spent more than $300,000 buying players for the second base and shortstop positions. In 1925 Ruppert paid $50,000 to the Salt Lake Club of the Pacific Coast League for the release of Tny Lazzari, and a similar amount to the St. Paul American Association Club for Mark Koenig, Miller Huggins, manager, used these newcomers in winning the American League pennant in 1926.

To replace Koenig and Lazzari, Col. Ruppert gave $10,000 to the Oakland Club of the Pacific Coast League for the release of shortstop Lyn Lary and second baseman Jimmy Reese. Lary did well. Reese was sent back to the Coast League last year, being a weak hitter but smart in the field.

Ruppert's third investment has bought Jack Saltzgraver, the St. Paul second baseman, and Frank Crosetti, youthful San Francisco short fielder. Each represents a cash outlay of $50,000.

HANKINSON IRES MANASSA MAULER
AKRON, O., March 11.—Jack Dempsey had two more notches in his string of exhibition victories today but it took real work to get them here last night.

Hank Hankinson, farmer boy from Lancaster, Ohio, gave the capacity crowd of 3,500 a genuine thrill before succumbing to the iron fists of the former heavyweight champion.

Hankinson drove Dempsey to the ropes with a vicious left to the jaw in the first round. But in coming in to finish the job he left himself wide open and was floored by a right and left to the jaw.

Enraged, Dempsey came out slugging in the second round and dropped the farmer boy in 1:40 with a one-two to the chin.

Tny Powell, Dempsey's second opponent, lasted the scheduled two rounds but set some kind of record by getting floored eight times, each for the count of nine, in the second round.

BATTALINO TO MEET ED RAN
Former Feather Champ To Have Hands Full; Victory Would Aid Cause.

NEW YORK, March 11 Christ-opher (Bat) Battalino, who never has been knocked out and who has yet to lose a fight in New York, may lose both distinctions tonight when he faces Eddie Ran, slugging Polish welterweight, in a ten-round bout at Madison Square garden.

Ran has been installed at 7 to 5 choice over the former featherweight champion for two reasons, he carries a lethal wallop in his right hand and he will have a pull of from seven to ten pounds in the weights.

Being the underdog in the betting will be no mental handicap to Battalino, making his first start as a welterweight. In fact, he considers it a favorable omen. In every previous fight in New York he was the short-ender and he won all of them.

IS UNDER-RATED
The lion-hearted Bat, veteran of a thousand battles as a street urchin, in Hartford Conn., always has been under-rated here. As featherweight champion, he turned back one challenger after another despite the fact that the torture of scraping down to the 126-pound limit took terrific toll of his stamina.

Bat didn't have to worry about weight when he fought Al Singer here last December, and he scored a quick knockout over former lightweight champion. At full strength tonight, he may register a similar upset at Ran's expense.

The Connecticut warrior has every incentive to win. Victory would establish him as a leading contender for the lightweight and welterweight titles and would assure him of a $50,000 bout with Billy Petrole here in a few weeks.

Petrole was to have fought Bat tonight but developed a sore neck and Ran was substituted for him. Ran is a one-punch who may be baffled by Bat's weaving style. Furthermore, Polish eagle weakens under sustained body punching. If Bat can keep his chin away from Ran's right and stay in close, he may win the decision by pounding away at the Pole's midsection.

League came into existence, the National League played off the Association which was disbanded in 1890. In 1892, the National Leagues played a split season and engaged in a series. The Boston Braves took the flag after beating Cleveland in five straight games.

The first international harness horse race was held near Cambridge, England, in 1829. The contestants were Battler, a trotter owned by an American and Miss Turner, a mare owned by a Welshman.

Miss Spangler of the first and second grades reports the following Honor Roll: David Bolender, Lee Anna Clark, Alice Reiser, Alice Carter, Paul Brobst, Erma Ruth Bowers.

Ruby and Charles Good have returned to school after being quarantined for three weeks for scarlet fever.

Miss DeLong of the third and fourth grades reports the following Honor Roll: Thelma Clark, Paul Matz, Philip Reichelderfer, Forrest Whitten, Mary Beck, Mary Kathryn Bowman, Bernice Myers, Fern Richards, Jane Sowers, Paul Bowers, and Warren Elliott.

The following pupils in the third and fourth grades had perfect spelling grades the past month: Paul Matz, Thelma Clark, Paul Bowers and Mary Beck.

A large motto was presented to the third and fourth grade room as a reward for selling the most mottoes this past week.

Each grade and the high school had group pictures taken last week. They were very good pictures and has given us all an opportunity to see ourselves as others see us.

Dorothy Nace, a freshman at Ashville high school was a visitor in our high school last Friday—the guest of her cousin, Retha Diltz.

Emmitt Frazier is still confined to his home because of scarlet fever. Emmitt is also threatened with appendicitis and we are hoping for a speedy recovery for him.

The following high school pupils have been placed on the Honor Roll for the past six weeks: Marthe Hitler, Ethel Legore, David Adams, and Oakley Leist.

This honor roll represents superior work in at least three subjects and each pupil is to be praised for his or her high type of work.

Garnett Davis, who graduated last year, visited our high school Monday. Garnett has taken up nurse's training at Mercy hospital in Columbus.

Grover Dresbach, freshman, has returned to school after more than a week's absence because of illness.

George Barton Huffer, second grade, Melvin Huffer, fifth grade, have entered our school from Walnut-twp.

The girls in the high school have organized a spring baseball team. They have chosen Retha Diltz as their captain.

Bakers and butchers and candlestick makers all seem to take advantage of a baron or count to raise prices skyward, is the complaint of a Swedish nobleman who wants his title changed to plain Herr Johansson. "THAT LITTLE GAME" === Just a Trifling Error

HERE! HERE! WHATTA YOU DOIN' THERE?
I'M TAKING A CHIP OUT OF THE POT, — GUESS I MADE A MISTAKE AND EDGED TWICE! SEE, THERE'S ONE CHIP TOO MANY.

LET'S SEE, I OPENED AND THE REST OF YOU ARE STAYIN', — THAT'S FINE AND THE DEALER'S EDGE WOULD BE SIX, ONE, TWO, THREE, FOUR, FIVE, SIX. — YOU'RE RIGHT, ONE TOO MANY.

LEAVE THAT CHIP IN THERE, YOU CROOK! THAT'S THE DEALER'S EDGE FROM THE LAST HAND WHEN NOBODY HAD 'OPENERS'.

IF I SAT NEXT TO THAT BIRD I'D WEAR A BURGLAR PROOF SUIT!

I NEVER DID LIKE HIS FACE! EVEN HIS NOSE IS CROOKED!

Minor league baseball came into existence in 1877—one year after the formation of the National League. The circuit was called the International League and was formed for the purpose providing games for the smaller cities and towns, not near the big clubs.

The greatest crowd ever to witness a basketball game assembled in the Cleveland Auditorium, Feb. 22, 1924. Cleveland Rosenblums and the New York Celtics played a double header. The total attendance for both games was 22,000 and the paid admission exceeded $18,000.

It is claimed that one must be learned in science to build a bobbed course. Especially the first letter.

One way—and not a new way, either—is to make a budget. Put down, week by week, the money that goes out. So much for food, so much for clothing so much for rent. So much for giving, and for luxuries.

It won't always be easy, of course, to stay within the budget. That's where advertising helps you. Advertisements in this newspaper tell you how much rugs, butter, breakfast foods, dishes, homes, automobiles will cost before you go shopping! They point out ways to save money. They show you how to cut a little here, a little there. And each day, they tell about new inventions, new products, new ways of doing things, that help make this life of ours very much worth living!

Spending to save through ADVERTISING

Not many of us, these days are troubled with so much money that we cannot spend it. But we are interested in spending the money we have, to get the most out of it.

FEW CHANGES ARE APPARENT FOR CLEVELAND INDIAN TEAM

NEW ORLEANS, March 11.—The only change in the Cleveland Indians this season as against the Indians of 1931 is in the attitude of Manager Roger Peckinpaugh.

He is done with experimenting at shortstop, where the Tribe has dabbled with a dozen or more candidates in the last two years, and he is no longer willing to balance Eddie Morgan's .350 batting average against sub-major league fielding.

Morgan, who plays first base, hit over .350 last season but his home run record fell from 26 to 11 and his work in the field was pretty bad.

REPLACE MORGAN

Power or not, Morgan will not play first base for the Tribe unless he can show a considerable improvement in the field and there is some doubt of that. Right now, Morgan is slated to warm the bench while the job is assigned to Bruce Connatser, a youngster who played a dozen games the tail-end of last season and made an impressive showing.

Connatser is a hapless looking ball player, especially in the spring. Two years ago Terre Haute didn't want him but had to play him as it was then a Cleveland farm. Connatser hit .378 last year, New Orleans didn't like his looks either but was persuaded to try him and he hit .334. There never has been any question about his ability to field. He's good.

If both Connatser and Morgan fail, there is Bill Sweeney, former Detroit and Boston first sacker, now with the Cleveland-owned Toledo club.

Otherwise the Indians will take the field exactly the same as last season. The outfield is plenty good with the sensational youngster Vosmik in left, the home-run hitting Averill in center and Porter in right. This trio hit respectively, .333, .320 and .312 last season. In reserve are the veteran Jamieson and young Seeds, both of them with averages over .300 and capable in the field.

MONTAGUE CERTAIN

The steady Kamm is still at third. Montague won the shortstop job last season and showed so much that Manager Peckinpaugh isn't even considering any other candidate.

The slugging Hodapp is on second. Burnett, who may beat out Hodapp for second, can also be used at third and short.

Sewell and Myatt are on hand for the catching and there is a kid receiver named Pytlak from Buffalo who looks like a real comer. The brilliant Wesley Ferrell heads a strong pitching staff. Others considered regulars are Hurlin, Harder, Brown, Connally and Jablonowski with the latter two doing the bulk of relief pitching. The best of the youngsters is Hildebrand, with Indianapolis last season.

Last season the Tribe as a whole was only one point behind the Yankees in team batting. This batting punch and pretty good pitching were nullified by the worst infielding in the major league. This season, however, Connatser will provide more than capable defensive work at first base. Montague is good enough at short and Hodapp can hardly be as bad as last season.

Husky Prospect

According to reports from their New Orleans training camp, Manager Peckinpaugh, of the Cleveland Indians, may have a real find in Charlie Reddock (above), rookie pitcher. Reddock is six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds. He is a right-hander with lots of speed.

One way—and not a new way, either—is to make a budget. Put down, week by week, the money that goes out. So much for food, so much for clothing so much for rent. So much for giving, and for luxuries.

It won't always be easy, of course, to stay within the budget. That's where advertising helps you. Advertisements in this newspaper tell you how much rugs, butter, break-fast foods, dishes, homes, automobiles will cost before you go shopping! They point out ways to save money. They show you how to cut a little here a little there. And each day, they tell about new inventions, new products, new ways of doing things, that help make this life of ours very much worth living!

CLASSIFIED COLUMNS

The CIRCLEVILLE HERALD and THE UNION-HERALD CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

All ads are restricted to their proper classification and to the regular Circleville Herald style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

Advertising orders for irregular insertions take the one-time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines. Count five average words to the line on paid advertisements.

Charged ads will be received by telephone, and if paid at Circleville Herald office within six days from the first day of insertion cash rates will be allowed.

Ads ordered for three or seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned. Ads ordered seven times will be published in the Union-Herald (weekly) and will be counted as one insertion, as will three-times ads ordered printed in Tuesday's or Wednesday's issues of the Daily.

Ads received up to 11 A. M. will be inserted the same day. A charge of 50 cents is made for publishing cards of thanks. Special rates for 7 year advertising upon request.

Careful attention given to mail orders. Prices per line for consecutive insertions.

One time be per line. Three times for the price of two. The publishers will be responsible only for one incorrect insertion of any advertisement.

ASHVILLE

The following seventh grade pupils have a C average or above: Ruth Courtwright, Walter Gregg, Lucille Hedges, Jane Lindsey, Marthe Martin, Bessie Maupin, Wilbur Neff, Grace Tigner, and Richard Toole.

Walter Gregg made high score in grade seven on the Every Pupil Test of George Washington which was given Tuesday morning. The score was 78 out of a possible 148.

Elmer Mallory entered the seventh grade Tuesday. He formerly attended Barrett Jr. High in Columbus.

Those who were neither absent nor tardy in the first grade for the last six weeks were: Ellis Cline, Viola Mae Ward, Joan Tosca, Ben Ray, Paul Pettibone, Roseanna Meyers, and Betty Mae Hunt.

The following third grade pupils have been neither absent nor tardy this school year: John Chamberlain, Edna Hunt, Clarence Rush and Beatrice Kibbee.

Miss Acord, music teacher, has been at home, ill with the flu, since Wednesday of this week.

In the fourth grade George Washington test Junior Neff made the highest score, 36, the lowest was 16, and the class median was 24.

Helen Spindler, Helen Boyer and Roberta Cromely of grade six participated in the Women's home Missionary program at the M. E. church, Friday afternoon.

In connection with the study of Ohio, the pupils of grade six are making maps showing "Historical and scenic points in the state," "Natural resources," "railroads and waterways" and "Early Indian tribes."

Every Pupil Tests, prepared by the State Department, were given in the upper grades last Tuesday. This test was on the life of George Washington. Gretchen Hedges, with a score of 91, had the highest score in the 8th grade.

In the George Washington test given to the grade last week the following medians were made: Grade III, 22; IV, 24; V, 25; VI, 26; VII, 56; and VIII, 67. This test was given to stimulate interest rather than to find out how much or how little the pupils knew about the Father of His Country.

Billie Cloud lead the third grade with a score of 31. Junior Neff, second with 36; Paul Clark and Helen Kibbee the 6th, with 34; Helen Spindler, the sixth with 40; Walter Gregg, the seventh with 78; and Gretchen Hedges, the eighth, and the school, with 91 points.

Conrad's Follies gave a very interesting program last Friday evening at the high school building.

The following freshman students have an all E. average in academic subjects for this fourth six weeks period: Mary Jane Choate, Clementine Glyod, Esther Ann Reid, Charlotte Rhodes, Amanda Wallen and Kathryn Baum.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedke of Dayton writes "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lost fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

SECOND ANALYSIS OF OHIO'S NEW TAX LAW IS REPORTED

The second installment in a question-and-answer guide to Ohio's new tax law, follows:

Q. How may I file my return?

A. Returns may be made by mail or in person to the county auditor. If by mail, a self-addressed envelope should be enclosed for return of the auditor's certificate or treasurer's receipt.

Q. What rates do I pay?

A. Tangible Personal Property is taxed at the local real estate rate on fixed percentages of its value according to use as shown by blank form. The local rates, by taxing districts, are shown on the form for each county. These are stated on page 6 of the form, in the Classified Tax List table.

Q. How do I make out my return?

A. Read the instructions on page 2 of the blank form of returns and carefully note those which pertain to your case. Then begin with the first question on page 1 and follow through. Under each heading list only the taxable property called for by that particular heading. Where there is none, the word "none" should be written. Each question must be answered. The form, though extensive, is not difficult if followed through.

Q. How are taxes computed?

A. The taxpayer may compute his own taxes and necessarily will do so if the return is made by mail. The tables and instructions on page 6 of the blank form, under the heading of Recapitulation and Computation of Tax, make this a simple matter. There is one table, headed General Tax List, for intangible property. The local tax rates will be found at the bottom of page 4. The rates for the various classes of intangible property are stated in the column to the right of the Classified Tax List table.

Q. When do I pay my taxes?

A. Real estate taxes are to be paid as heretofore. Half of the estimated total tax on tangible and intangible personal property for 1932 is now to be paid in advance, the remainder by Sept. 20. It cannot be allowed to become delinquent, as the return is not deemed filed until the advance payment is paid, and the 50 per cent penalty must be added if the return is not filed in time.

Q. How is payment to be made?

A. The advance payment may be made with the return. Otherwise the auditor will certify the amount to the taxpayer for payment. In this case, ten days after March 31 is the time limit for making the advance payment. Checks for payment of taxes must be payable to the county treasurer.

The county auditors, as a rule, have organized and prepared their staffs to give personal assistance to taxpayers in making out their returns. It is the earnest advice of taxing authorities throughout the state that the taxpayers who wish to avail themselves of this assistance, do so immediately. The auditors and their clerks have more time to give each taxpayer now than will be possible in the later rush. It is to the advantage of the taxpayer to make his return early.

When the game of field hockey was first played, back about 2,500 years ago, the sport was "for men only." Today there are only about 500 men players, while the woman devotees are legion.

EXCESS OF TEACHERS LIKELY TO CONTINUE SAYS O. S. U. MAN

COLUMBUS, O., An oversupply of teachers is likely for several years to come, Dr. Earl W. Anderson, director of the appointments division, Ohio State University, predicts in the current Educational Research Bulletin, published by the university. His conclusion is reached in studying teaching opportunities for last year's graduates of education colleges.

Forty nine per cent of the 1931 graduates of the Ohio State University college of education obtained teaching positions, he reports, while 44 per cent were unable to obtain such positions. Similar conditions were found in other states where 61 universities, colleges and teachers' colleges reported an average placement of 55 per cent of their teacher-training graduates.

"The present oversupply has two causes," Dr. Anderson explains, "namely, excessive output on the part of training institutions and reduced opportunities. When good times return, business and professional opportunities almost immediately draw from teaching many of those who came in from other occupations and those who took teaching positions because other opportunities were closed."

Teacher training graduates last year "found more competition and fewer opportunities for teaching positions than have existed for a number of years," Dr. Anderson says. Serious decreases in school income last year, he says, resulted in smaller teaching staffs, heavier duties for individual teachers, and a few special subjects were dropped.

Of last year's graduates here, those qualified to teach industrial arts and those who specialized in Latin were most successful in obtaining positions. Other subjects in which more than two-thirds of the graduates obtained teaching positions were home economics, geography, chemistry and music. More than half of the graduates in history and in English were unable to obtain employment.

ARNATTO VS. CARROT

CHICAGO—The arnatto, a tropical shrub grown in Brazil, is largely supplanting the lowly American carrot as a coloring source for butter and oleomargarine, according to Dr. E. E. Dahlgren of the Field Museum of Natural History. A lifelike reproduction of a flowering and fruiting branch of the arnatto has been made for the museum from an original specimen secured in Para, Brazil.

NO LUCK WITH HORSESHOE CHICAGO—Joseph Frazier, 48-year-old convict, has been convicted of the not even a horseshoe will bring him luck. He tossed a no. seven through the window of a jewelry shop. Just as he had collected two rings and seven watches a policeman appeared. Frazier explained he used the horseshoe for luck.

Business Women Celebrate National Week At Dinner

One of the loveliest parties entertained at the Boggs hotel was the dinner-bridge Thursday evening entertained by the local Business and Professional Women's Club in celebration of the National Business Women's week. Forty members and guests enjoyed the delightful affair.

The honored guests were representatives of the various clubs in the city; Mrs. Carl Ritz, president of the Benevolent Association; Mrs. R. R. Bales, president of the Monday Club; Mrs. Glenn Nickerson, regent of the D. A. R.; Mrs. B. T. Hedges of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The dinner at 6:30 o'clock was served at beautifully appointed long tables centered with an artistic arrangement of white freesias and pussywillows and fern. The dinner and program was in charge of the Public Relations committee of the club, Miss Minnie Palm and Mrs. Harp VanRiper.

The club's president, Miss Helen Rowe, presided at the affair which was opened by the reading of the club collect followed by singing. An interesting paper read by Mrs. Chandler explained the purpose of National Business Women's week. Mrs. Ritz gave a number of facts on benevolent work throughout the city which were followed by short talks on the Monday Club, the D. A. R. and the American Legion Auxiliary as organizations, by Mrs. Bales, Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Hedges, respectively.

After the unusually pleasant dinner hour cards were enjoyed in the hotel parlor. Favors for top score in the game were awarded Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Hedges.

In observance of National Business Women's week the Southern Ohio Electrical Co. has a special display in its show window.

HOSTESS TO SEWING CLUB

Mrs. L. E. Davidson was hostess to members of the "You Go, I Go" sewing club at her home Tuesday afternoon. A delicious covered dish dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock and a pleasant social evening was enjoyed.

MRS. NOGGLE ENTERTAINS

Mrs. M. E. Noggle entertained at a charming bridge party at her home on W. Union-st. Wednesday afternoon. Guests were members of a bridge club of which Mrs. Noggle has been a guest, and an extra table, Mrs. T. O. Gilliland, Mrs. George Hammel, Mrs. Ralph Cur-tain, Mrs. S. G. Crone, Mrs. T. P. Brown, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Mrs. T. F. Jeffries, Miss Carrie Johnson, Mrs. R. L. Brehmer, Mrs. Wallace Crist, Mrs. Anna Ritt and Mrs. Henry Mader.

A spring bouquet of white freesias, snapdragons, daffodils and white and lavender sweetpeas, made an artistic centerpiece for the attractive table for the buffet supper after the interesting bridge game in play at three tables during the afternoon. Trophies were presented Mrs. Hammel and Mrs. Ritt.

YACHT, SIX, ARE MISSING

Dupont Boat Unreported Since Tuesday; Fear for Safety of Party.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 11.—Anxiety was felt today over the whereabouts of the yacht Nahma, owned by A. Felix Dupont, and bearing his son, Richard, and a party of friends on an ocean cruise.

Upon request of Dupont, an aviator, T. P. Ball, yesterday flew over a wide area of the sea, but failed to locate the vessel.

The yacht's whereabouts have been a mystery for nearly four days. She was sighted off the North Carolina coast Tuesday. She was due to touch port here, but failed to arrive.

Aboard the yacht are Richard Du Pont, son of the vice president of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours company and skipper of the yacht, Victor Du Pont, Jr., Herman Laffey and Scott Townsend of Wilmington, Del., Lloyd Coates and Benjamin McFarlane of Philadelphia.

The Nahma is propelled principally by sails but has a small auxiliary engine. Mr. Du Pont said today. It is described as small, but a boat of ordinary sea worthiness.

Coast guard cutters from Norfolk, Cape May, N. J., Southport, N. C. and Savannah have been ordered to sea to search for the Nahma.

WILLIAMSPORT

Mrs. George W. Hamman, Jr., was hostess to her bridge club on Tuesday evening. Following several rounds of play a delicious lunch was served to four tables of players which included a few substitute guests. Score prizes were received by Mrs. Sam Metzger and Mrs. Lee Luesler.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Metzger entertained their dinner-bridge club on Thursday evening.

Mrs. M. W. Newhouse attended the annual banquet and entertainment of the Columbus League of Hard of Hearing, which was held on Thursday evening in the Crystal Room of Hotel Fort Hayes.

L. A. Lewis of Monroe-twp. was a Williamsport visitor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Gerhardt of near Fox Post Office, were Wednesday afternoon callers on Williamsport relatives.

Newel McNeal was a visitor in Cincinnati Thursday.

Lem J. Hurst of Columbus, was in Williamsport on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dickey of Greenfield spent a part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGhee and daughter.

LINDBERGH

that sooner or later the good news would be announced.

However, neither police nor the bereft Lindbergh household at Hopewell, N. J., indicated when the happy finale could be expected.

There were no definite developments other than deductions based on information gleaned from second-hand sources.

Even the officials "questionnaire" conferences between the press and police were discontinued.

There appeared to be no advance to the progress reported previously by the state police in the case.

JOHNSON HELD

Only one person remained in the custody of authorities," he was Henry "Red" Johnson, sailor sweetheart of Betty Gow, Lindbergh nurse.

During the farewell press conference it was disclosed that Johnson had been to a moving picture theatre in Englewood, N. J. on the night of the kidnapping.

He had been accompanied, police said, by Johnsen Junge, his friend, husband of an employee in the residence of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the missing babe.

Although there is no charge against Johnson, the deckhand on the yacht of Thomas D. Lamont, financier, faces deportation, according to a statement issued by Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of the New Jersey state police.

"The Newark police have been investigating Henry Johnson because most of his activities have been centered in North Jersey," said Colonel Schwarzkopf. "A statement was taken from him accounting for his actions before the crime and immediately following the crime up until the time he was apprehended in Connecticut."

"The investigation is being conducted by interviewing all people who could have any knowledge concerning his movements and acting during the time mentioned. So far his story has checked satisfactorily."

STILL DOUBTFUL

"So far, we have not been able to fix any definite responsibility for the kidnapping upon Henry Johnson or Betty Gow but because of international investigations of both of these subjects with reference their previous lives, abroad we are not in a position to vindicate them."

"A communication was received from State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn to the effect that one Betty Gow, a chorus girl, served six months for illegal entry into the United States and was deported to Europe in 1927 and returned to the United States in 1929."

"The verification of the fingerprints of the Betty Gow, who is employed by the Lindbergh family by the U. S. bureau of investigation of the department of justice show no criminal records in the United States and this would tend to disprove the fact that the two are one and the same."

"The investigation has brought out that Henry Johnson entered this country illegally."

TO FEDERAL MEN

Colonel Schwarzkopf added that when authorities were finished with questioning Johnson he would be turned over to immigration authorities for deportation proceedings.

"In anticipation of this he is being held by the Newark authorities," the colonel said.

"Salvy" Spitalo and Irving Bitz, the two underworld figures appointed by Colonel Lindbergh to conduct possible negotiations with gangdom for the recovery of the baby, were reported to have appeared in Brooklyn federal court in connection with the trial of two men charged with conspiracy to smuggle liquor.

The two men named in the indictment were James Martin and Morris Grossman. The latter is the alias of Bitz, according to police.

The trial continues today.

The scope of the baby hunt has spread across the ocean with ships arriving from the United States being searched for a sign of the missing child.

When the Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord arrives today in Bergen, Norway, she will be searched thoroughly as the result of a tip that a man with a blonde beard child was seen burning up the gangplank when the vessel called from New York the day following the kidnapping. However, the captain of the liner in a radio message to International News Service denied the baby was aboard.

The ladder used by the kidnappers continued to be a subject for intensive investigation. R. B. Hullfish, who was in charge of construction work on the Lindbergh homestead, said that the lumber in the ladder might have been taken from wood used in the construction of the Lindbergh house, or from left-over material in the erection of other residences in the neighborhood.

Dr. Henry A. Cotton, director emeritus of the New Jersey state hospital for the insane, believes that a shrewd, cold-blooded person of normal mentality guided the kidnapping.

"I have never known an insane person or an epileptic to seek a ransom," said Dr. Cotton.

A ransom note was left in the Lindbergh nursery by the baby-stealers.

CAPONE OFFERS AID

The state troopers, investigators and clerical personnel at the Lindbergh estate dwindled down to sixty persons.

In Chicago, Al Capone told Arthur Brisbane, noted editor, in an interview from a jail cell, that he would "hunt night and day" for the Lindbergh baby if the government would release him temporarily.

RELICS OF 2ND CENTURY B. C.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Discovery of ruins of civilization dating to the second century B. C. have been reported to University of Michigan officials by Dr. Leroy Waterman, professor of semetics, who has been in Selucia, on the Tigris River, Mesopotamia, exploring Dr. Waterman's expeditions brought back ancient coins, new types of pottery and other valuable treasures.

The recruit rejected by the Cincinnati Reds sets a new low in baseball ability.

Gold is one of the few things in the world that can be either a disease or a remedy.

The headlines indicates that the list of hazards occupations may yet include that of being a husband.

Clarence Darrow will be under a handicap before that Hawaii jury if he cannot play a steel guitar and shake a mean hip.

Business Women Celebrate National Week At Dinner

One of the loveliest parties entertained at the Boggs hotel was the dinner-bridge Thursday evening entertained by the local Business and Professional Women's Club in celebration of the National Business Women's week. Forty members and guests enjoyed the delightful affair.

The honored guests were representatives of the various clubs in the city: Mrs. Carl Ritz, president of the Benevolent Association; Mrs. R. R. Bales, president of the Monday Club; Mrs. Glenn Nickerson, regent of the D. A. R.; Mrs. B. T. Hedges of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The dinner at 6:30 o'clock was served at beautifully appointed long tables centered with an artistic arrangement of white freezies and pussywillows and fern. The dinner and program was in charge of the Public Relations committee of the club, Miss Minnie Palm and Mrs. Harp VanRiper.

The club's president, Miss Helen Rowe, presided at the affair which was opened by the reading of the club collect followed by singing. An interesting paper read by Mrs. Chandler explained the purpose of National Business Women's week. Mrs. Ritz gave a number of facts on benevolent work throughout the city which were followed by short talks on the Monday Club, the D. A. R. and the American Legion Auxiliary as organizations, by Mrs. Bales, Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Hedges, respectively.

After the unusually pleasant dinner hour cards were enjoyed in the hotel parlor. Favors for top score in the game were awarded Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Hedges.

In observance of National Business Women's week the Southern Ohio Electrical Co. has a special display in its show window.

HOSTESS TO SEWING CLUB

Mrs. L. E. Davidson was hostess to members of the "You Go, I Go" sewing club at her home Tuesday afternoon. A delicious covered dish dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock and a pleasant social evening was enjoyed.

MRS. NOGGLE ENTERTAINS

Mrs. M. E. Noggle entertained at a charming bridge party at her home on W. Union-st. Wednesday afternoon. Guests were members of a bridge club of which Mrs. Noggle has been a guest, and an extra table, Mrs. T. O. Gilliland, Mrs. George Hammel, Mrs. Ralph Curran, Mrs. S. G. Crone, Mrs. T. P. Brown, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Mrs. T. F. Jeffries, Miss Carrie Johnson, Mrs. R. L. Brehmer, Mrs. Wallace Crist, Mrs. Anna Ritt and Mrs. Henry Mader.

A spring bouquet of white freezies, anaparras, daffodils and white and lavender sweetpeas, made an artistic centerpiece for the attractive table for the buffet supper after the interesting bridge game in play at three tables during the afternoon. Trophies were presented Mrs. Hammel and Mrs. Ritt.

Farm Loan Head

Appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur S. Hyde to direct the huge farm loan funds made available by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Henry S. Clarke (above), Chicago banker, will administer the amounts set aside for farm relief. About a million farmers are expected to take advantage of the crop loans this year.

YACHT, SIX, ARE MISSING

Dupont Boat Unreported Since Tuesday; Fear For Safety of Party.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 11.—Anxiety was felt today over the whereabouts of the yacht Nahma, owned by A. Felix Dupont, and bearing his son, Richard, and a party of friends on an ocean cruise.

Upon request of Dupont, an aviator, T. P. Ball, yesterday flew over a wide area of the sea, but failed to locate the vessel.

The yacht's whereabouts have been a mystery for nearly four days. She was sighted off the North Carolina coast Tuesday. She was due to touch port here, but failed to arrive.

Aboard the yacht are Richard Du Pont, son of the vice president of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours company and skipper of the yacht, Victor Du Pont, Jr., Herman Lafey and Scott Townsend of Wilmington Del., Lloyd Coates and Benjamin McFarlane of Philadelphia.

The Nahma is propelled principally by sails but has a small auxiliary engine. Mr. Du Pont said today. Is is described as small, but a boat of ordinary sea worthiness. Coast guard cutters from Norfolk, Cape May, N. J., Southport, N. C. and Savannah have been ordered to sea to search for the Nahma.

WILLIAMSPORT

Mrs. George W. Hamman, Jr., was hostess to her bridge club on Tuesday evening. Following several rounds of play a delicious lunch was served to four tables of players which included a few substitute guests. Score prizes were received by Mrs. Sam Metzger and Mrs. Lee Luellen.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Metzger entertained their dinner-bridge club on Thursday evening.

Mrs. M. W. Newhouse attended the annual banquet and entertainment of the Columbus League of Hard of Hearing, which was held on Thursday evening in the Crystal Room of Hotel Fort Hayes.

L. A. Lewis of Monroe-twp, was a Williamsport visitor, Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Gerhardt of near Fox Post Office, were Wednesday afternoon callers on Williamsport relatives.

Newel McNeal was a visitor in Cincinnati Thursday. Lem J. Hurst of Columbus, was in Williamsport on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dickey of Greenfield spent a part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGhee and daughter.

Mrs. Sam Tootle of near Five Points was a Williamsport visitor on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Crable and Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Tootle of London attended the High School opera on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry West of Circleville and their daughter, Miss Henrietta West of Columbus were Williamsport visitors on Friday evening and attended the performance of the High School opera.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel McGill and daughter of Frankfort were week end visitors in Williamsport.

that sooner or later the good news would be announced.

However, neither police nor the bereft Lindbergh household at Hopewell, N. J., indicated when the happy finale could be expected.

There were no definite developments other than deductions based on information gleaned from second-hand sources.

Even the officials "questionnaire" conferences between the press and police were discontinued.

There appeared to be no advance to the progress reported previously by the state police in the case.

JOHNSON HELD

Only one person remained in the custody of authorities, he was Henry "Red" Johnson, sailor sweetheart of Betty Gow, Lindbergh nurse.

During the farewell press conference it was disclosed that Johnson had been to a moving picture theatre in Englewood, N. J. on the night of the kidnapping.

He had been accompanied, police said, by Johnsen Junge, his friend, husband of an employee in the residence of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the missing babe.

Although there is no charge against Johnson, the deckhand on the yacht of Thomas D. Lamont, financier, faces deportation, according to a statement issued by Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of the New Jersey state police.

"The Newark police have been investigating Henry Johnson because most of his activities have been centered in North Jersey," said Colonel Schwarzkopf. "A statement was taken from him accounting for his actions before the crime and immediately following the crime up until the time he was apprehended in Connecticut.

"The investigation is being conducted by interviewing all people who could have any knowledge concerning his movements and acting during the time mentioned. So far his story has checked satisfactorily.

STILL DOUBTFUL

"So far, we have not been able to fix any definite responsibility for the kidnapping upon Henry Johnson or Betty Gow but because of international investigations of both of these subjects with reference their previous lives abroad we are not in a position to vindicate them.

"A communication was received from State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn to the effect that one Betty Gow, a chorus girl, served six months for illegal entry into the United States and was deported to Europe in 1927 and returned to the United States in 1929.

"The verification of the fingerprints of the Betty Gow, who is employed by the Lindbergh family by the U. S. bureau of investigation of the department of justice show no criminal records in the United States and this would tend to disprove the fact that the two are one and the same.

"The investigation has brought out that Henry Johnson entered this country illegally."

TO FEDERAL MEN

Colonel Schwarzkopf added that when authorities were finished with questioning Johnson he would be turned over to immigration authorities for deportation proceedings.

"In anticipation of this he is being held by the Newark authorities," the colonel said.

"Salvy" Spitalo and Irving Bitz, the two underworld figures appointed by Colonel Lindbergh to conduct possible negotiations with gangdom for the recovery of the baby, were reported to have appeared in Brooklyn federal court in connection with the trial of two men charged with conspiracy to smuggle liquor.

The two men named in the indictment were James Martin and Morris Grossman. The latter is the alias of Bitz, according to police.

The trial continues today. The scope of the baby hunt has spread across the ocean with ships arriving from the United States being searched for a sign of the missing child.

When the Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord arrives today in Bergen, Norway, she will be searched thoroughly as the result of a tip that a man with a blonde haired child was seen hurrying up the gangplank when the vessel sailed from New York the day following the kidnapping. However, the captain of the liner in a radio message to International News Service denied the baby was aboard.

The ladder used by the kidnappers continued to be a subject for intensive investigation. R. B. Hullfish, who was in charge of construction work on the Lindbergh homestead, said that the lumber in the ladder might have been taken from wood used in the construction of the Lindbergh house, or from left-over material in the erection of other residences in the neighborhood.

Dr. Henry A. Cotton, director emeritus of the New Jersey state hospital for the insane, believes that a shrewd, cold-blooded person of normal mentality guided the kidnapping.

"I have never known an insane person or an epileptic to seek a ransom," said Dr. Cotton.

A ransom note was left in the Lindbergh nursery by the baby-stealers.

CAPONE OFFERS AID

The state troopers, investigators and clerical personnel at the Lindbergh estate dwindled down to sixty persons.

In Chicago, Al Capone told Arthur Brisbane, noted editor, in an interview from a jail cell, that he would "hunt night and day" for the Lindbergh baby if the government would release him temporarily.

RELIQS OF 2ND CENTURY B. C. ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Discovery of ruins of civilization dating to the second century B. C. have been reported to University of Michigan officials by Dr. Leroy Waterman, professor of semiotics, who has been in Selucia, on the Tigris River, Mesopotamia, exploring. The recruit rejected by the Cincinnati Reds sets a new low in baseball ability.
